2009 No. 3070

The Ministry of Defence Police Appeals Tribunals Regulations 2009

Legal and other representation

15.—(1) The appellant has the right to be represented at a hearing by a relevant lawyer or a police friend.

(2) Where the appellant is represented at the hearing by a relevant lawyer, the appellant may also be accompanied at the hearing by a police friend.

(3) If an appellant chooses not to be represented, the hearing may take place and the appeal may be determined without the appellant being represented.

(4) The respondent has the right to be represented at a hearing by a relevant lawyer or a police officer or an Agency staff member.

(5) Where a police friend is a police officer or an Agency staff member under the direction and control of the chief constable, the chief constable shall permit that police friend to use a reasonable amount of duty time for the purposes referred to in this regulation.
