9. Where in relation to any policy of assurance to which section 54 of the Act applies the time for making an application to the company or society or for appealing to the Commissioner has expired, the owner of the policy or any other person on his behalf may submit an application to the Commissioner and if it appears to the Commissioner that—

- (i) there were good reasons for the failure to make the application to the company or society or to appeal to the Commissioner within the required time and there has been no undue delay in submitting the application under this Regulation; and he may make an order requiring the company or society to reinstate the policy, where it has been forfeited after the passing of the Act, and otherwise to do such acts in relation to the policy as the company or society would have done or would have been required to do had the application or appeal been made within the required time and granted or allowed.

10. Where the terms of a policy are varied in accordance with the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 56 of the Act, the company or society shall endorse the policy, or serve a notice on the owner of the policy, to that effect.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Part VI of the Reserve and Auxiliary Forces (Protection of Civil Interests) Act, 1951, inter alia enables the owner of an industrial assurance policy or other life or endowment policy effected with a collecting friendly society to obtain protection for his policy, subject to certain conditions, if he is unable to pay the premiums thereon as a result of service, whether performed by the owner or by another, in the Reserve and Auxiliary Forces.

These Regulations provide for the procedure in connection with the making of applications to industrial assurance companies and collecting societies for such protection, with the grant or refusal of such applications, with appeals to the Commissioner against such refusals; and for other matters required for the purpose of giving full effect to the provisions of Part VI of the Act relating to the protection of the afore-mentioned policies.
