(5) Subject to sub-paragraph (6) the appellant and the appropriate body may give evidence, call witnesses, question any witnesses and address the appeal body both on the evidence and generally on the subject matter of the appeal.

(6) The appeal body may at any point in the hearing limit the rights of either party under sub-paragraph (5) provided it is satisfied that to do so will not prevent the appeal from being decided fairly.

(7) The appeal body may adjourn the hearing, but shall not do so unless it is satisfied that it is necessary to do so in order for the appeal to be decided fairly.

(8) The time and place for an adjourned hearing shall either be announced before the adjournment or the appeal body shall without delay and in any event not later than the end of the period of three working days beginning with the date of the adjournment send notice to the appellant and the appropriate body informing them of the time and place of the adjourned hearing.

Decision of the appeal body

17.—(1) The decision of the appeal body may be made and announced at the end of the hearing, but in any event, whether there has been a hearing or not, shall be recorded immediately it is made in a document which shall also contain a statement of the reasons for the decision and shall be signed and dated by a person authorised by the appeal body.

(2) The appeal body shall not later than the end of the period of two working days beginning with the date on which it made its decision—

- (a) send a copy of the document referred to in sub-paragraph (1) to the appellant, the appropriate body and the head teacher of the school at which the appellant was employed at the completion of his induction period; and
- (b) if a person or body other than the appropriate body is named as the appellant's employer in the notice of appeal, notify him or it of its decision.

Irregularities

18.—(1) Any irregularity resulting from failure to comply with any provision of this Schedule before the appeal body has reached its decision shall not of itself render the proceedings void.

(2) Where any such irregularity comes to the attention of the appeal body it may, and shall if it considers either party may have been prejudiced by the irregularity, give such directions as it thinks just, before reaching its decision, to cure or waive the irregularity.

Documents

19.—(1) Anything required to be sent to a person for the purposes of an appeal under this Schedule may be—

- (a) delivered to him personally; or

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations require persons qualifying as teachers to complete successfully an induction period before taking up employment at a "relevant school" in England. By virtue of section 43(2) of the Teaching and Higher Education Act 1998, this includes engagement otherwise than under a contract of employment at such a school.

"Relevant school" is defined in section 19(10)(b) of the Teaching and Higher Education Act 1998, and includes schools maintained by local education authorities, grant-maintained schools and special schools not maintained by local education authorities. The definition is prospectively amended so as to remove the reference to grant-maintained schools by the School Standards and Framework Act 1998 to take account of the new framework for schools taking effect on 1st September 1999.

An induction period may be served in a relevant school, or an independent school the curriculum of which meets certain requirements of the National Curriculum. It may not be served in a pupil referral unit or a school in "special measures", unless the person in question is completing an induction period already started at the school or one of Her Majesty's Inspectors of Schools in England certifies that the school is fit to provide induction.

The length of an induction period is generally three school terms for a full-time teacher and its equivalent for a teacher working part-time.

The requirement to serve an induction period is subject to exceptions: the main exceptions are for teachers who qualified before the Regulations come into force, teachers excepted from the requirement to be qualified teachers, teachers who have successfully completed induction periods in other parts of the United Kingdom, and teachers to whom Article 3 of Council Directive 89/48 EEC on a general system for the recognition of higher-education diplomas awarded on completion of professional education and training of at least three years' duration applies.

The Regulations provide for the Secretary of State to give guidance against which teachers serving induction periods are to be assessed for the purpose of determining whether they have completed their induction periods successfully.

At the end of the induction period the head teacher of the school at which the teacher is employed makes a recommendation to the body which assesses teachers undergoing induction, in most cases the local education authority, and they decide whether the teacher has successfully completed induction, should have his induction period extended or whether he has failed to complete his induction satisfactorily. There is provision for a person having his induction period extended or failing to complete his induction satisfactorily to appeal to the Secretary of State.
