Interpretation

2.—(1) In this Order—

“baselines” has the same meaning as in the Territorial Sea Act 1987(7);

“British fishing boat” means a fishing boat which is either registered in the United Kingdom under Part II of the Merchant Shipping Act 1995(8) or is owned wholly by persons qualified to own British ships for the purposes of that Part of that Act;

“scallop” means a shellfish of the species Pecten maximus;

“scallop dredge” means any appliance with a rigid framed mouth which is towed through the water and is manufactured, adapted, used or intended for use for the purpose of fishing for scallops.

(2) For the purposes of this Order, a reference to a specified “ICES division”(9) is a reference to a statistical division of the International Council for the Exploration of the Sea set out in the Schedule.

Specification of scallop dredges

3.—(1) No British fishing boat may carry or tow a scallop dredge within British fishery limits unless the dredge conforms to the following specifications.

(2) It must—

- (a) include a functioning, operational and moveable spring-loaded tooth bar and belly bar;
- (b) not have any part of its frame that exceeds 85 centimetres in width;
- (c) not contain any attachments;
- (d) not contain a diving plate or any other similar device;
- (e) not exceed 150 kilograms in weight including all fittings;
- (f) not contain more than 1 row of belly rings hanging from either side of the dredge perpendicular to the rings which hang from the belly bar.

(3) If the dredge measures 80 centimetres or more in width, it must not have—

- (a) more than 8 rows of belly rings hanging from the belly bar;
- (b) more than—
 - (i) 9 teeth on the tooth bar, if—

(4) 1998 c. 47.

(5) 1998 c. 46.

(6) 2006 c. 32; s.158(1) was amended by the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 (c. 23), s.43(2). The Welsh zone is specified in S. I. 2010/760.

(7) 1987 c.49.

(8) 1995 c.21.

(9) The International Council for the Exploration of the Sea (ICES), set up under intergovernmental agreement (the ICES Convention), coordinates and promotes marine research on oceanography, the marine environment, the marine ecosystem, and on living marine resources in the North Atlantic.

- (aa) the fishing boat in question is outside the relevant area; or
- (bb) each tooth measures 12 millimetres or less; or
- (ii) 8 teeth on the tooth bar, if—
 - (aa) the fishing boat in question is inside the relevant area; and
 - (bb) any tooth measures more than 12 millimetres.
- (4) If the dredge measures less than 80 centimetres in width, it must not have—
 - (a) more than 6 rows of belly rings hanging from the belly bar; or
 - (b) more than 6 teeth on the tooth bar.
- (5) Each tooth on the tooth bar must measure no more than—
 - (a) 22 millimetres if the dredge measures 80 centimetres or more in width; or
 - (b) 12 millimetres if the dredge measures less than 80 centimetres in width.
- (6) For the purposes of this article—
 - (a) the size of the tooth on a tooth bar is its maximum width measured in the direction of the line of the tooth bar; and
 - (b) belly rings and the fastenings that attach the belly rings to each other and to the frame are not attachments.
- (7) In this article—
 - “attachment” means anything that is fitted to the scallop dredge (other than something that is used solely to aid the lifting and emptying of the dredge and which in no way obstructs the belly rings or any netting);
 - “belly bar” means the bar attached to the frame of a scallop dredge which runs parallel to the tooth bar and from which most of the belly rings ultimately hang;
 - “row of belly rings” means a line of single interconnecting rings, where the ring at one end of the line hangs either from the belly bar or from the main structure of the dredge perpendicular to the belly bar;
 - “the relevant area” means that part of ICES division VIIa which is north of the line 52° 30'N but outside the Scottish zone, and all of ICES division VIIId;
 - “tooth bar” means the bar to which are attached teeth, the ends of which point downwards and are dragged along the sea bed when the dredge is towed.

Restrictions on number of scallop dredges

4. No British fishing boat may tow at any one time more than 8 scallop dredges from each side of the boat when in waters adjacent to England out to a line drawn 12 nautical miles from baselines.

Carriage of undersized scallops

5.—(1) For the purposes of section 1(3) of the Sea Fish (Conservation) Act 1967, scallops measuring less than 110 millimetres may not be carried by a British fishing boat that has fished in both ICES division VIIId and ICES division VIIe during a single fishing trip.

(2) In this article, “single fishing trip” means the time from when a fishing boat departs from a port to the time when it returns to a port.

(3) For the purposes of this article, the size of a scallop is measurable in accordance with paragraph 6 of Annex XIII to Council Regulation (EC) No 850/98⁽¹⁰⁾ for the conservation of fishery resources through technical measures for the protection of juvenile marine organisms.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Order)

This Order specifies the size and dimension of scallop dredges allowed to be carried and used by British fishing boats (article 3) and restricts the number of scallop dredges that can be towed at any one time by British fishing boats in waters adjacent to England out to a line drawn 12 nautical miles from baselines (article 4).

The Order fixes the minimum size of scallop which may be carried by British fishing boats in certain areas and the method to be used to measure scallops (article 5).

Offences for breach of this Order are contained in sections 1(8) and 3(5) of the Sea Fish (Conservation) Act 1967 (c. 84) (“the Act”). Penalties, which are in section 11 of the Act, include a fine not exceeding £50,000 on summary conviction and a fine on conviction on indictment. The court may impose an additional fine not exceeding the value of fish caught in contravention of the Act or caught with fishing gear that contravened the Act. The court may also order the forfeiture of that fish or fishing gear.

For the purposes of enforcing this Order, a British sea-fishery officer has the powers conferred by section 15 of the Act and by Part 8 of the Marine and Coastal Access Act 2009 (c. 23).
