Document Generated: 2023-11-30

ANNEX
In Annex I to Directive 98/8/EC, the following entry is added:

No	Common Name	n IUPAC NameId	Minimu e ntifrėty tio		Deadline for	Expiry date of	Product type	Specific provisions ^a
	Name	Nameldo		inclusion		ndenclusion S ng		provisions substanc
' 59	cis- tricos-9- ene (Muscalu	cis- Tricos-9- ene; (Z)- rd)ricos-9- ene EC No: 248-505-7	801 g/kg	October 2014	30 Septembe 2016	30 rSeptember 2024	19	The Union level risk assessment did not address all potential

a For the implementation of the common principles of Annex VI, the content and conclusions of assessment reports are available on the Commission website: http://ec.europa.eu/comm/environment/biocides/index.htm

No: 27519-02-4 Reposure scenarios; certain uses and exposure scenarios, such as outdoor use and exposure of food or feed, were excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article $ and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental compartments	ı	CAS				uses and scenarios; certain uses and exposure scenarios, such as outdoor use and exposure of food or feed, were excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental certain uses and exposure scenarios, such as outdoor use and exposure of food or feed, were excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental			_1 uses and exposure scenarios, such as outdoor use and exposure of food or feed, were excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental		2/31/ 02	' exposure scenarios, such as outdoor use and exposure of food or feed, were excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental scenarios, such as outdoor use and exposure of food or feed, were excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental such as outdoor use and exposure of food or feed, were excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental outdoor use and exposure of food or feed, were excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental use and exposure of food or feed, were excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental exposure of food or feed, were excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental of food or feed, were excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental or feed, were excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental were excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental excluded. When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental When assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental assessing the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and to environmental the application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental application for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental for authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental authorisation of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental of a product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental product in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental in accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental accordance with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental						in with Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental Article 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental 5 and Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental Annex VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental VI, Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental Member States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental States shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental						Member shall assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental assess, where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental where relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental relevant for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental for the particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental particular product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental product, those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental those uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental						product, uses or exposure scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental						those scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental						uses or scenarios and those risks to human populations and to environmental and those risks to human populations and to environmental risks to human populations and to environmental human populations and to environmental						those human populations and to environmental and to environmental						human and to environmental						populations and to compartments						environmental compartments

a For the implementation of the common principles of Annex VI, the content and conclusions of assessment reports are available on the Commission website: http://ec.europa.eu/comm/environment/biocides/index.htm

Document Generated: 2023-11-30

	1	ı	1	1	1	ı
							that have not been representatively addressed in the Union
							level
							risk assessment.
							For
							products containing cis-tricos-9-ene that may lead to residues
							in food
							or feed,
							Member
							States
							shall verify the need to set
							new or to amend existing maximum residue
							levels
							(MRLs)
							according to Regulation
							(EC) No
							470/2009
							or Regulation
							(EC) No
							396/2005,
							and take any appropriate
							risk
							mitigation measures ensuring

a For the implementation of the common principles of Annex VI, the content and conclusions of assessment reports are available on the Commission website: http://ec.europa.eu/comm/environment/biocides/index.htm

Document Generated: 2023-11-30

				that the applicable MRLs are not exceeded.'

For the implementation of the common principles of Annex VI, the content and conclusions of assessment reports are available on the Commission website: http://ec.europa.eu/comm/environment/biocides/index.htm