EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations.)

These regulations further amend the Housing Benefit (General) Regulations (Northern Ireland) 1987 in the following respects—

- (a) they omit the definition of “community charge” (regulation 2);
- (b) they reduce the number of hours of work in each week required for a person to be treated as engaged in remunerative work from not less than 24 to not less than 16 (regulations 3 and 17);
- (c) they specify more particularly the income included in the calculation of a person’s weekly income (regulation 4);
- (d) they extend the sums to be disregarded in calculating the profits of self-employed earners (regulation 5);
- (e) they omit references to community charge in the provisions relating to the calculation of a person’s notional income, notional capital and disregard of charitable payments from income (regulation 6);
- (f) they amend the conditions governing the valuation of services performed by a claimant for another person in calculating a claimant’s income (regulation 7);
- (g) they amend the rules for calculating the rate at which a person’s notional capital diminishes (regulation 8);
- (h) they define what constitutes the last day of a course of education and make consequential amendments to the definitions of “period of study” and “student” (regulation 9);
- (i) they increase the amount of the deduction to be made in calculating a student’s eligible rent (regulation 10);
- (j) they increase the sum allowed in respect of the cost of a student’s books and equipment in calculating his grant income (regulation 11);
- (k) they clarify the method of calculating the amount of a student’s loan to be taken into account as income (regulation 12);

- (l) they provide that claims made within 4 weeks of a claimant or his partner first becoming liable to make payments in respect of his dwelling may be made at the appropriate office (regulation 13);
- (m) they restrict the time for which benefit, which has been overpaid in consequence of an official error, shall continue to be due (regulation 14);
- (n) they amend the provisions specifying charges in respect of radio relay or television services which are eligible for benefit (regulation 15);
- (o) they increase the personal allowance for single persons under 25 and lone parents under 18, the amounts payable in respect of children and young persons and the family premium and amend the conditions for entitlement to a carer premium (regulation 16);
- (p) they specify that payments by the Government of a country outside Great Britain which are analogous to a war disablement pension or war widow's pension are to be disregarded as part of a person's income (regulation 18);
- (q) they provide that the value of the right to receive a personal pension is to be disregarded from a person's capital (regulation 19);
- (r) they provide that where awards of housing benefit are reviewed in consequence of the specified increases in allowances for a child or young person, an increase in the family premium and an increase in child benefit, if the amount of the award is unchanged, a notice of the determination on review need not be sent to the person entitled to the award (regulation 20).
