Whereas a complaint has been made before me in respect of an application for [a violent offences prevention order] [and] [an interim violent offences prevention order] to the following effect, viz –

That you, the above-named defendant are a qualifying offender by virtue of the following facts –

Details of offence:

If committed abroad, the corresponding offence this would have constituted if the act had been done in the United Kingdom is:

Date of [conviction] [finding] [caution]:

Details of court/police station:

And it is alleged that you have since the date of the above conviction, finding or caution, acted in such a way as to give reasonable cause to believe that a violent offences prevention order under section 57 of the Justice Act (Northern Ireland) 2015 is necessary to protect the public from the risk of serious violent harm caused by you.

Short description of acts, including date(s) and further comments:

- the address of any premises not previously notified to the police at which you stay or reside for more than a period of 7 days or two or more periods totalling seven days in any twelve months; and
- your release, if you are in custody.

In addition to the notification requirements listed above, where you intend to be absent from your home address for more than three days, you would be required to notify the police of the following and any subsequent changes to the following, not less than twelve hours before leaving your home address:

- the date of your departure;
- such details as you may hold about your travel and accommodation arrangements; and
- the date of your return to your home address.

Police Service of Northern Ireland Headquarters will be able to explain these conditions to you in more detail (in particular the information which you must bring with you when you make your initial notification) and tell you at which police station you should attend.

A list of police stations in Northern Ireland prescribed for the purpose of Part 8 of the Justice Act (Northern Ireland) 2015 may be obtained from the court office or from Police Service of Northern Ireland Headquarters.

If, without reasonable excuse, you did anything you were prohibited from doing or failed to do anything you were required to by a violent offences prevention order or an interim violent offences prevention order, or if you failed to comply with the notification requirements of Part 8 of the Justice Act (Northern Ireland) 2015, you would be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 6 months on summary conviction or 5 years on indictment.
