These Regulations, which extend only to Scotland, implement provisions of Council Directive 99/78/ EC (O.J. No. L 24, 30.1.98, p.9) by amending the Products of Animal Origin (Import and Export) Regulations 1996 ("the principal Regulations") so as to extend the powers of authorised officers as regards products of animal origin which have been imported otherwise than in accordance with animal or public health conditions.

  (ii) in respect of imports from third countries, to require the destruction or re-export of products of animal origin which they have reasonable grounds for believing do not comply with animal or public health conditions relating to import (regulation 2(3)).
