EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Order)

Section 94 of the Nationality, Immigration and Asylum Act 2002 (appeal from within the United Kingdom: unfounded human rights or asylum claim) concerns appeal rights for unfounded human rights and asylum claims.

Under section 94(2), a person may not bring an appeal under section 82(1) while in the United Kingdom where he has made a human rights or asylum claim, or both, and the Secretary of State certifies that the claim is, or the claims are, clearly unfounded. The Secretary of State shall issue a certificate under section 94(2) if he is satisfied that the claimant is entitled to reside in a State listed in section 94(4), unless he is satisfied that the claim is not clearly unfounded.

Section 94(5) allows the Secretary of State to add a State, or part of a State, to the list in section 94(4) if he is satisfied that; (a) there is in general in that State or part no serious risk of persecution of persons entitled to reside in that State or part, and (b) removal to that State or part of persons entitled to reside there will not in general contravene the United Kingdom's obligations under the Human Rights Convention. Section 94(5A) states that if the Secretary of State is satisfied that the statements in section 94(5)(a) and (b) are true of a State or part of a State in relation to a description of person, he may add the State or part to the list in section 94(4) in respect of that description of person.

This Order adds Mongolia to the list of States in section 94(4). This Order also adds Ghana and Nigeria, in respect of men, to the list of States in section 94(4).
