

Congenital Disabilities (Civil Liability) Act 1976

1976 CHAPTER 28

An Act to make provision as to civil liability in the case of children born disabled in consequence of some person's fault; and to extend the Nuclear Installations Act 1965, so that children so born in consequence of a breach of duty under that Act may claim compensation. [22nd July 1976]

Commencement Information

II Act wholly in force at Royal Assent

Changes to legislation:

There are currently no known outstanding effects for the Congenital Disabilities (Civil Liability) Act 1976, Introductory Text.