- (3) A person who has not been bound by and served under articles as required by ^{F27}regulations made under ^{F28}the ^{M1}Solicitors Act 1974]], but has served as assistant to a justices’ clerk, may be admitted a solicitor of the Supreme Court, subject to the following provisions—
 - (a) the person to be admitted shall have had not less than ten years’ service as such an assistant and, out of that service, not less than five years shall have been before the first day of January, nineteen hundred and sixty, and not less than the required number of years shall have been approved service;

Status: Point in time view as at 01/02/1991.

Changes to legislation: There are currently no known outstanding effects for the Justices of the Peace Act 1949 (repealed). (See end of Document for details)

- (b) for the purpose of the foregoing paragraph “approved service” means service either—
- (i) as an articulated clerk; or
 - (ii) with respect to which the person to be admitted has obtained from the Law Society a certificate under this section on an application made after he has had five years’ service as such an assistant and before the said first day of January,
- and the required number of years of approved service is the number which that person would, apart from this subsection, be required^{F29} . . . to serve under articles entered into at the date of that application;
- (c) the Law Society may grant a person a certificate with respect to service in any employment as assistant to a justices’ clerk if they are satisfied that at the time of granting the certificate it is not practicable for him to serve as an articulated clerk in that employment, and the certificate shall relate to any service by him in that employment after that time;
- (d) subject to the foregoing paragraphs [^{F28}the^{M2}Solicitors Act 1974], shall apply, with any necessary modifications, in relation to a person’s certificate under this section and a person applying for or obtaining such a certificate as if the certificate were articles of clerkship and the service to which it relates were service under those articles.

^{F30}(6)

^{X1}(7) Subsection (2) of section one hundred and fifty-nine of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882 (which relates to the qualification for being clerk to a borough justices), shall cease to have effect.
