2. Every such claim and every such request shall be made in such form and in such manner as the determining authority may require.

3. In the event of the death of a person who has made a claim or who, if he had survived, could have made a claim for compensation under these Regulations, such claim may be continued by, or may be made by, his legal personal representatives.

(2) A claimant who attends as aforesaid may, if he so desires, be represented by his adviser.

PART II

Compensation for loss of office

7.—(1) On receipt of a first claim from a claimant for compensation in respect of loss of office, not being a claim for resettlement payment under Part VI of this Schedule, the determining authority shall consider forthwith whether the claimant is a person to whom this Part of this Schedule applies, and, if they consider that he is not such a person, shall so advise him within one month of the receipt of the claim.

(2) This Part of this Schedule applies to a whole-time officer or a part-time officer who, after attaining the age of eighteen years, for the period of eight years immediately preceding the material date continuously (except for breaks not exceeding in the aggregate eighteen months) devoted the whole or part only of his time to the office of clerk of the peace or justices' clerk or to assisting the holder of such an office in the performance of the duties of that office or to any combination of any such offices or employments except in so far as he was engaged on national service or war service undertaken on his ceasing to hold any such office or employment.

8. Unless the determining authority advise the claimant under sub-paragraph (1) of paragraph 7 of this Schedule, they shall, as soon as may be, assess the just amount (if any) of the compensation to be awarded under the succeeding provisions of this Part of this Schedule and notify the claimant and, unless in relation to the claimant they are the paying authority, the paying authority, of their decision.

9. For the purpose of determining whether any compensation under this Part of this Schedule should be awarded to a claimant for loss of office and, if so, the amount of the compensation, the determining authority shall have regard to—

- (a) the conditions upon which he held his office, including in particular its security of tenure, whether by law or by practice;
- (b) the conditions, including security of tenure whether by law or by practice, of any other office to which he may have been appointed in place of the office he has lost; and
- (c) all the other circumstances of his case.

10.—(1) In the case of a whole-time officer to whom this Part of this Schedule applies, compensation under the said Part for loss of office shall be awarded by way of an annual sum payable until normal retiring age which sum shall not exceed a sum calculated as follows, namely:—

for every completed year of the officer's service, one-sixtieth of the net emoluments of the office he has lost; and in addition in the case of an officer who has attained the age of forty-five years at the date of loss, one-sixtieth of the said net emoluments for every completed year of service since he attained that age;

so however that the sum shall not in any case exceed two-thirds of the net emoluments of the office which he has lost.

(2) In computing service for the purposes of this paragraph any service in part-time employment shall be treated as though it were service in whole-time employment for a proportionately reduced period.

- (a) 11. (1) (a) The determining authority shall have discretion to review an award of compensation to a whole-time officer under this Part of this Schedule at intervals of not less than six months and to increase it or decrease it in the light of any change in the circumstances of the case, so however that no review shall, save in exceptional circumstances, be made later than two years after the date of the decision of the determining authority under paragraph 8 of this Schedule or, if the matter was referred to the tribunal under Regulation 6 of these Regulations, two years after the date of the decision of the tribunal.
- (b) A whole-time officer may, at intervals of not less than six months, request the determining authority to review an award made to him under this Part of this Schedule if he considers that there has been a material change in the circumstances to which regard was had when the award was made, so however that no such request shall, save in exceptional circumstances, be made later than two years after the date of the decision of the determining authority under paragraph 8 of this Schedule or, if the matter was referred to the tribunal under Regulation 6 of these Regulations, two years after the date of the decision of the tribunal.

(2) The determining authority shall forthwith notify in writing the whole-time officer and, unless in relation to the officer they are the paying authority, the paying authority of their decision on any review under sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph.

(3) Regulation 6 of these Regulations shall apply to a decision of the determining authority on any review under this paragraph or to the amount of compensation awarded by such decision as it applies to a decision or to the amount of compensation referred to in the said Regulation.

(4) If a whole-time officer to whom compensation is awarded under this Part of this Schedule is appointed to another office within the said period of two years, he shall immediately notify the determining authority in writing of his appointment.

12.—(1) In the case of a part-time officer to whom this Part of this Schedule applies, compensation under the said Part for loss of office shall be awarded by way of a lump sum payment which shall not exceed an amount calculated as follows, namely:—

two-fifths of the net emoluments of the office the officer has lost for every completed year of service after the first seven such years and before the officer attains the age of sixty years, but not exceeding a sum equal to twice the net emoluments of the said office, less one-fifth of the said net emoluments for every completed year of service after the officer attains the age of sixty years:

Provided that the lump sum payment awarded under this paragraph shall, in the case of an officer to whom sub-paragraph (2) of this paragraph applies, not be less than the minimum set out in the said sub-paragraph unless the determining authority in the exercise of their discretion under paragraph 9 of this Schedule so determine.

(2) The minimum lump sum payment shall be—

- (a) if the officer suffers loss of office after attaining the age of sixty years and before attaining the age of sixty-five years, three-fifths of the net emoluments of the office he has lost;
- (b) if the officer suffers loss of office after attaining the age of sixty-five years and before attaining the age of sixty-seven years, two-fifths of the net emoluments of the office he has lost;
- (c) if the officer suffers loss of office after attaining the age of sixty-seven years, one-fifth of the net emoluments of the office he has lost.

PART III

Superannuation provisions

13. Subject as hereinafter provided, a whole-time or part-time pensionable officer who suffers loss of office before attaining normal retiring age shall, on attaining normal retiring age, be entitled to receive the following compensation, namely:—

- (a) an annual sum equal to the amount of his accrued pension; and
- (b) a lump sum equal to the amount of his accrued retiring allowance.

14. Where a whole-time or part-time pensionable officer has been or is, after suffering loss of office, appointed to an office in which he is subject to a pension scheme in circumstances in which he is entitled to reckon for the purposes thereof service or contributions which fall to be taken into account for the purpose of assessing compensation under paragraph 13 of this Schedule, no compensation under that paragraph shall be payable unless the annual rate of the emoluments paid or made to him in respect of the office he has lost immediately before such loss exceeds the annual rate of the emoluments paid or made to him in respect of the office to which he has been or is appointed immediately after the appointment by more than five per cent., and any compensation payable under the said paragraph shall, in so far as it is calculated by reference to remuneration, be calculated by reference to the difference of the said annual rates.

15. If under the pension scheme to which a whole-time or part-time pensionable officer was last subject before suffering loss of office the amount of any pension to which he might have become entitled might have been increased by virtue of the exercise of any discretion conferred by the pension scheme, the determining authority may determine to increase the annual sum payable as compensation under paragraph 13 of this Schedule by an annual sum not exceeding the amount by which his accrued pension might have been increased or the annual value of the payments which might have been made to him by way of addition to, or supplementation of, his accrued pension.

16. If a whole-time or part-time pensionable officer had attained the age of forty years at the date on which he lost his office, the determining authority in calculating the amount of the compensation payable to him under paragraph 13 of this Schedule may credit him with additional years of service or additional contributions not exceeding one year of service or one year's contributions for each completed year of service between the date on which he attained the age of forty years and the date on which he lost his office, but not in any case exceeding ten years or such number of years as the officer could have served had he continued in his office until attaining normal retiring age, whichever is the less.

17. In deciding whether to add any number of years under the last preceding paragraph, the determining authority shall have regard to the conditions set out in paragraph 9 of this Schedule and also to the officer's rights under any pension scheme associated with any office to which he may have been appointed after suffering loss of office.

18.—(1) A whole-time or part-time pensionable officer whose accrued pension includes the annual value of a contingent right under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before suffering loss of office in respect of a widow's pension, may, if he so desires and informs the determining authority in writing within one month after attaining normal retiring age, agree to surrender so much of the annual sum payable to him as compensation under paragraph 13 of this Schedule as represents the annual value of any such contingent right in consideration of the paying authority granting to his widow an annual sum equal to one-third of his accrued pension less the part thereof surrendered under the provisions of this paragraph and less the annual value of any contingent right under the said pension scheme in respect of a death grant.

(2) In calculating the accrued pension for the purposes of this paragraph no account shall be taken of any additional years of service or additional contributions credited under paragraph 16 of this Schedule beyond the number of years which the officer could have served before his death had he not suffered loss of office.

(3) Any annual sum payable to a widow under this paragraph shall cease to be payable in any circumstances in which a widow's pension under the said pension scheme would have ceased to be payable.

19.—(1) A whole-time or part-time pensionable officer whose accrued pension includes the annual value of any contingent right under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before suffering loss of office in respect of a death grant, may, if he so desires and informs the determining authority in writing within one month after attaining normal retiring age, agree to surrender so much of the annual sum payable to him as compensation under paragraph 13 of this Schedule as represents the annual value of any such contingent right in consideration of the paying authority granting to his legal personal representatives a sum equal to the amount of any death grant which would have become payable to them in accordance with the method of calculation prescribed by the pension scheme had he died immediately before suffering the loss of office and completed the minimum number of years of qualifying service or contributions required by the pension scheme less a sum equal to the aggregate amount of any payments made to him under paragraph 13 of this Schedule.

(2) If the amount of any death grant falls to be ascertained by reference to the officer's years of service or contributions, the years of service or contributions shall be deemed to include any additional years of service or contributions credited to the officer under paragraph 16 of this Schedule:

Provided that no account shall be taken of any number of such additional years of service or contributions beyond those which the officer could have served before his death had he not suffered loss of office.

(3) If the number of years of the officer's qualifying service or contributions is less than the minimum number of years of qualifying service or contributions prescribed by the pension scheme for the receipt of a death grant, the said sum shall not exceed such proportion of the death grant

*Status: This is the original version (as it was originally made). This item of legislation is currently only available in its original format. The electronic version of this UK Statutory Instrument has been contributed by Westlaw and is taken from the printed publication. Read more calculated as aforesaid as the number of years of the claimant's qualifying service or contributions bears to the minimum number of years of qualifying service or contributions required by the pension scheme.

(4) For the purpose of calculating the said death grant an annual sum payable under paragraph 18 of this Schedule shall be deemed to be a widow's pension.

20. A whole-time or part-time pensionable officer who, under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before suffering loss of office, would have been entitled on becoming entitled to a pension to surrender a part thereof in favour of his spouse or any dependant of his, may, if he so desires and informs the determining authority by notice in writing accordingly within one month after attaining normal retiring age, surrender on the like terms and conditions as on the surrender of part of a pension such part of the annual sum awarded by way of compensation under paragraph 13 of this Schedule, and the paying authority may grant to the spouse or any other dependant of the officer a pension of such value as would be the case were the annual sum a pension to which he had become entitled under the said pension scheme.

21.—(1) Compensation shall not be payable, or shall cease to be payable, under this Part of this Schedule to a whole-time or part-time pensionable officer who has received any sum by way of a return of contributions under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before suffering loss of office unless he pays to the paying authority an amount equivalent to the said sum.

(2) The amount referred to in sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph shall be held by the paying authority subject to the condition that if no death grant is payable under paragraph 19 of this Schedule and the officer dies before he has received in the aggregate by way of compensation under this Part of this Schedule a sum equal to the amount so paid to the paying authority, together with compound interest thereon calculated at the rate of three per cent. per annum with half yearly rests up to the date of his death as from the first day of April or the first day of October following the half year in which the amount was paid, there shall be paid to his legal personal representatives the difference between the aggregate amount received by way of compensation and the said sum:

Provided that—

- (i) this paragraph shall not apply to an officer in whose case paragraph 14 of this Schedule applies and, in the event of an officer becoming such a person after having made a payment under this paragraph, the amount of the sum so paid shall be returned to him by the paying authority;
- (ii) if an annual sum becomes payable to the widow of such an officer under paragraph 18 of this Schedule and on the sum ceasing to be payable the aggregate amount of the payments which had been made to her or to her husband under this Part of this Schedule was less than the aggregate amount of the sum paid to the paying authority by the husband on account of contributions and the total of the compound interest thereon as aforesaid, the difference between the said aggregate amounts shall be paid to her or to her legal personal representatives and not to her husband's legal personal representatives.

(3) A whole-time or part-time pensionable officer shall, on or before the date on which compensation may become payable to him under this Part of this Schedule, be entitled, if he so desires and informs the determining authority in writing accordingly, to receive from the paying authority in lieu of any such compensation—

- (a) if he has paid any sum to the paying authority under sub-paragraph (1) of this paragraph, an amount equivalent thereto, together with interest thereon calculated in the manner provided by the pension scheme as from the date of payment of the said sum; and
- (b) if he has not received a return of contributions under the pension scheme to which he was last subject before suffering loss of office and if, being entitled to such a return, he has relinquished that right, an amount equivalent to the amount of such contributions, together with interest thereon calculated in the manner provided by the pension scheme, and any liability of the paying authority under paragraph 18 or 19 of this Schedule shall cease in the event of his giving such notice as aforesaid.

22.—(1) In the case of a whole-time officer receiving compensation for loss of office under Part II of this Schedule who is not a pensionable officer, the determining authority may, on his attaining normal retiring age, if they are satisfied that he would, but for the loss, have continued in the office he has lost for a substantial period beyond that age, determine that he be paid compensation for the remainder of his life at a rate one half of the rate of compensation being paid to him before he attained that age.

(2) In the case of a whole-time officer to whom Part II of this Schedule applies, who is not a pensionable officer, and who suffers loss of office on or after attaining normal retiring age, the determining authority may, if they are satisfied that he would, but for the loss, have continued in the office he has lost for a further substantial period, determine that he be paid compensation for the remainder of his life at a rate one half of the rate of compensation which would have been awarded to him under Part II of this Schedule had he not attained normal retiring age at the date on which he lost his office; and Part II of this Schedule shall apply accordingly for the purpose of determining the said rate of compensation.

(3) The determining authority shall notify the officer and, unless in relation to the claimant they are the paying authority, the paying authority in writing of any determination under this paragraph, and any such notification shall, for the purpose of these Regulations, be deemed to be a notification by the determining authority of the amount of compensation awarded.

PART IV

Compensation for diminution of emoluments

23.—(1) The compensation awarded to a whole-time officer for diminution of emoluments shall be awarded by way of an annual sum, payable for the same period or periods as would be the case were he a whole-time officer claiming compensation for loss of office under Parts II and III of this Schedule, and shall not, in respect of any such period, exceed a sum bearing the same proportion to the maximum amount of compensation which could have been awarded had he lost office as the annual rate of his emoluments immediately after diminution bears to the annual rate of his emoluments immediately before diminution:

Provided that where the said proportion is less than five per cent. no compensation shall be awarded.

(2) Any reference in the foregoing provisions of these Regulations to loss of office shall, in their application to a claim for diminution of emoluments, be construed as a reference to diminution of emoluments.

(3) Compensation under this Part of this Schedule shall cease to be payable if the whole-time officer ceases to hold the office in respect of which he is receiving compensation, otherwise than on grounds of ill health, injury or infirmity or of loss of office, before attaining normal retiring age.

24. Paragraphs 7, 8 and 9 other than sub-paragraph (b) of paragraph 9, of this Schedule, shall apply to a first claim for compensation from a claimant for diminution of emoluments as they apply to a first claim for compensation from a claimant for loss of office.

25. A decision to award compensation to a whole-time officer under this Part of this Schedule in respect of the period before he attains normal retiring age shall be subject to review in like manner as a decision to award compensation under Part II of this Schedule:

Provided that—

- (a) no review shall take place after the date on which he ceases to hold the office in respect of which he is receiving compensation for diminution of emoluments, except a review as at that date; and
- (b) while he continues to hold that office there shall be no limit to the period within which a review may take place.

26. Paragraphs 18 to 20 of this Schedule shall apply to a whole-time pensionable officer entitled to compensation for diminution of emoluments as they apply to a whole-time pensionable officer entitled to compensation for loss of office.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

These Regulations provide for the payment of compensation to persons who have held the office of clerk of the peace or justices' clerk or have been employed in assisting persons holding one of these offices and who suffered loss of office by reason of or under certain provisions of the Justices of the Peace Act, 1949, namely, section 10, which provides for the abolition of the separate commission of the peace for certain areas, section 18 which provides for the review of petty sessional divisions in a county and section 19 under which a magistrates' courts committee may group two or more clerkships under one justices' clerk.

The compensation is calculated in accordance with the provisions of the Schedule. A whole-time officer with eight years' service who suffers loss of office or diminution of emoluments will be eligible for compensation based on his net emoluments, age and length of service payable until normal retiring age (paragraphs 10 and 23); within the prescribed limit the amount of compensation is discretionary and is subject to review (paragraphs 9, 11, 24 and 25). A whole-time officer after attaining normal retiring age is entitled if he is a pensionable officer to his preserved pension rights (paragraphs 13 to 17) and if he is not a pensionable officer may in certain circumstances be granted a pension at half his previous rate of compensation (paragraph 22). Any rights in respect of a widow's pension or a death grant are also preserved (paragraphs 18 and 19).

A part-time officer with eight years' service who suffers loss of office will be eligible for a lump sum payment based on his net emoluments, age and length of service (paragraph 12); within the prescribed limit the amount of the compensation is discretionary (paragraph 9). A part-time pensionable officer is, after attaining normal retiring age, entitled to his preserved pension rights (paragraphs 13 to 17). Any rights in respect of a widow's pension or a death grant are also preserved (paragraphs 18 and 19).

Overlap with pensions or remuneration from public funds is avoided (paragraphs 14, 27 and 28). A part-time pensionable officer who suffers diminution of emoluments may contribute to and benefit from his pension scheme by reference to his former rate of pay (paragraph 30).

A part-time officer who suffers loss of office and has less than eight years' service is entitled to a resettlement payment equal to six weeks' salary (paragraphs 32 and 33). A whole-time officer with three years' service who suffers loss of office is entitled to a resettlement payment equal to two-thirds of his annual emoluments before the loss less the aggregate of two-thirds of any current earnings and, where he could claim unemployment or sickness benefits, the rate of benefit payable to a person without dependants. The resettlement payment to a whole-time officer is payable for not less than thirteen weeks and not more than twenty-six weeks depending on the claimant's age (paragraphs 32, 34 and 35).

Regulation 6 makes provision for appeal to a tribunal.
