Special credits where a woman's marriage has been terminated

2. Where a woman's marriage has been terminated by the death of her husband or otherwise, and she has in respect of any one year (not being a year before that in which the marriage took place, and being either the last year before that in which the marriage was terminated or any subsequent year) paid Class 1 or Class 2 contributions or both, and the earnings factor derived from those contributions is not less than that year's lower earnings limit multiplied by 25, there shall be credited to her, in respect of any year during the whole or any part of which the marriage subsisted, and for the purpose only of enabling her to satisfy the second contribution condition for unemployment and sickness benefit or maternity allowance referred to in paragraph 1 or 3, as the case may be, of Schedule 3 to the Act, such Class 1 contributions (if any) as are required to enable her to satisfy that condition, so however that she shall not be entitled by virtue of this provision to benefit in respect of any period before the marriage was terminated or before she paid contributions as aforesaid.

Modifications, in relation to widows, of provisions with respect to unemployment and sickness benefit, maternity allowance and Category A retirement pension

3.—(1) Subject to the following provisions of this regulation, where, otherwise than by reason of remarriage or cohabitation with a man as his wife, a woman ceases to be entitled either to a widow's allowance or to a widowed mother's allowance—

(a) she shall be deemed to have satisfied the first contribution condition for unemployment and sickness benefit, maternity allowance or a Category A retirement pension referred to in paragraph 1, 3 or 5, as the case may be, of Schedule 3 to the Act;

(b) for the purpose only of enabling her to satisfy the second contribution condition for unemployment and sickness benefit or maternity allowance referred to in paragraph 1 or 3, as the case may be, of Schedule 3 to the Act, there shall be credited to her such Class 1 contributions (if any) for every year up to and including that in which she ceased to be entitled as aforesaid as are required to enable her to satisfy that condition; and

(c) for the purposes of the provisions of section 13(1) of the Act (exhaustion of, and requalification for, unemployment benefit) if the day on which she ceases to be entitled as aforesaid falls during a period of interruption of employment, any part of that period before that day shall be left out of account and, if on that day her right to unemployment benefit is exhausted, she shall be deemed to have requalified therefor on that day.

(2) When a husband who is entitled to a Category C retirement pension dies and his wife has not attained pensionable age, the provisions of paragraph (1) of this regulation shall, subject to paragraph (6), apply to the widow as if she had then ceased to be entitled to a widow's allowance.

(3) Where a woman ceases to be entitled to a widowed mother's allowance as is mentioned in paragraph (1) of this regulation at a time when she is entitled to personal benefit by way of a widow's pension under the Industrial Injuries Act or any Personal Injuries Scheme or any Service Pensions Instrument or any 1914-1918 War Injuries Scheme at a weekly rate which is equal to or exceeds the weekly rate of widow's pension under the Act which is specified in the second column of Part I of Schedule 4 thereto, and thereafter that personal benefit, while continuing to be payable, falls to be reduced to a weekly rate which is less than the said weekly rate of widow's pension under the Act, paragraph (1) of this regulation shall apply to her both when she so ceases and when that personal benefit so falls to be reduced.

(4) In relation to a widow who, at her husband's death, would be entitled to a widow's allowance but for the fact that the conditions for a widow's allowance specified in section 19(1)(a) of the Act are not satisfied, paragraph (1)(a) of this regulation shall, subject to the provisions of paragraph (6) of this regulation and so far only as it relates to a Category A retirement pension, apply as if she had then ceased to be entitled to a widow's allowance.

(5) Subject to paragraph (9) of this regulation, where a woman is entitled to personal benefit by way of a widow's pension under the Industrial Injuries Act or any Personal Injuries Scheme or any Service Pensions Instrument or any 1914-1918 War Injuries Scheme—

(a) if the weekly rate of that personal benefit is equal to or exceeds the appropriate weekly rate of unemployment benefit or sickness benefit or maternity allowance, the provisions of sub-paragraphs (a) to (c) of paragraph (1) of this regulation shall not operate to entitle her to unemployment benefit or sickness benefit or maternity allowance for any period before she has satisfied the following contribution condition, namely that she has, in respect of any one year beginning after her husband's, or as the case may be her last husband's, death, paid Class 1 or Class 2 contributions or both, and the earnings factor derived from those contributions is not less than that year's lower earnings limit multiplied by 25; and

(b) if the weekly rate of that personal benefit is less than the said appropriate weekly rate, the said provisions shall not operate to entitle her to unemployment benefit or sickness benefit or maternity allowance, for any period such as is mentioned in the last foregoing sub-paragraph, at a weekly rate which exceeds the difference between the said appropriate weekly rate and the weekly rate of that personal benefit.

(6) For the purposes of a Category A retirement pension, the provisions of sub-paragraph (a) of paragraph (1) of this regulation—

(a) shall not, in the case of a woman who, having ceased to be entitled as is mentioned in that paragraph, remarries before she attains pensionable age, apply by reason of her ceasing to be entitled as aforesaid before her remarriage;

(b) shall not apply in the case of a woman who is entitled when she attains pensionable age to personal benefit by way of a widow's pension

under the Industrial Injuries Act or any Personal Injuries Scheme or any Service Pensions Instrument or any 1914-1918 War Injuries Scheme at a weekly rate which is equal to or exceeds the weekly rate of widow's pension under the Act which is specified in the second column of Part I of Schedule 4 thereto; and

- (c) shall not operate, in the case of any other woman who is entitled when she attains pensionable age to such personal benefit as aforesaid, to entitle her to a retirement pension at a weekly rate which exceeds the difference between the weekly rate of widow's pension under the Act which is so specified and the weekly rate of that personal benefit:

Provided that a woman affected by sub-paragraph (b) or sub-paragraph (c) of this paragraph shall cease to be so affected if and when she remarries.

(7) For the purpose of determining whether a woman ceases to be entitled as is mentioned in paragraph (1) of this regulation, a woman in whose case the Secretary of State is satisfied that she would be or would have been entitled to widow's benefit for any period but for any one or more of the following factors, namely—

- (a) her failure to make, or delay in making, a claim to the benefit;
- (b) her disqualification for the receipt of benefit for any other reason than her cohabitation with a man as his wife;
- (c) the operation of the provisions of regulations made under paragraph 3 of Schedule 10 to the Act (overlapping benefits);

shall be treated as if she is or was, as the case may be, entitled thereto throughout that period.

(8) For the purpose of determining whether a woman would be entitled to a widow's allowance but for the fact mentioned in paragraph (4) of this regulation, a woman in whose case the Secretary of State is satisfied that she would be so entitled but for that fact and for any one or more of the factors mentioned in paragraph (7) of this regulation shall be treated as if she would be so entitled but for that fact.

(9) A woman who ceases to be entitled as is mentioned in paragraph (1) of this regulation on more than one occasion shall be entitled to the benefit of the provisions of that paragraph, subject as therein mentioned, on each such occasion, and if, on one such occasion, she satisfies the contribution condition referred to in paragraph (5)(a) of this regulation, that paragraph shall not apply to her on any subsequent occasion.

(10) Where, but for this paragraph, the provisions of regulation 2 of these regulations and the provisions of this regulation would be applicable for the purpose of determining a woman's right to unemployment benefit or sickness benefit or maternity allowance for any day, her right thereto shall be determined by reference to the provisions of that one of those 2 regulations which is more favourable to her, to the exclusion of the provisions of the other.

Retirement pensions for women whose marriages have been dissolved

4.—(1) Where a woman's marriage (being, in the case of a woman who has been married more than once, her last marriage before attaining pensionable age) has been terminated otherwise than by the death of her husband and she was under pensionable age on the date of that termination, and she does not with her own contributions satisfy the second contribution condition for a Category A retirement pension specified in paragraph 5 of Schedule 3 to the Act, then the contributions of her husband (being, if she has been married more than once, her last husband) may, to the extent provided by the Schedule to these regulations, be treated as if they were contributions of her own.

(2) Where a woman's last or only marriage has been terminated otherwise than by death and she was not under pensionable age on the date of that termination, she shall, subject to the provisions of the Act, be entitled to a Category B retirement pension as if her husband by that marriage had died on the date of that termination.

(3) A woman whose last or only marriage has been terminated otherwise than by death and who was under pensionable age on the date of that termination shall, for the purpose of her right to a Category A retirement pension, be deemed to have satisfied the first contribution condition specified in paragraph 5 of Schedule 3 to the Act if, at the date of that termination, her husband by that marriage had satisfied it.

Death grant in respect of the death of a woman whose marriage was dissolved

5. Where a woman, whose last or only marriage was terminated otherwise than by the death of her husband, dies and the contribution condition for a death grant in respect of her death (specified in paragraph 7 of Schedule 3 to the Act) is not satisfied by her, she shall be deemed to have satisfied that condition if her husband by that marriage had satisfied it in respect of any year falling wholly before either the date of the termination of that marriage or the date of his attaining pensionable age, whichever is the earlier.

Credits for women who are or have been widows

6.—(1) In respect of the whole of any year such as is described in paragraph (2) of this regulation there shall be credited to a woman such Class 3 contributions (if any) as are necessary to enable her to acquire the requisite earnings factor for the year in question for entitlement to any benefit set out in section 9(4) of the Act for which Class 3 contributions are relevant.

(2) Paragraph (1) of this regulation applies—

- (a) where the woman has been widowed after 6th October 1974 but before 6th April 1975, to the year beginning on 6th April 1975;
- (b) where the woman has been widowed after 5th April 1975, to the year in which her husband died, and, where he died after 30th September in any year, to the next year;

- (c) where the woman has been widowed and at the end of the period of one or 2 years specified in sub-paragraph (a) or (b) of this paragraph there is pending a claim or application made by the woman as a widow within 182 days (including Sundays) of her husband's death for any benefit specified in regulation 2(5) of the Social Security (Contributions) (Married Women and Widows Special Provisions) Regulations 1973(a), to any year subsequent to the year or years specified in sub-paragraph (a) or (b) of this paragraph but not later than the year in which that claim or application is determined;
- (d) to any year during any part of which a widow's benefit (other than a widow's pension payable at a rate reduced under section 21(2) of the Act) or benefit under section 27(4) of the Act corresponding to a widow's pension or a widowed mother's allowance is payable to her as a widow;
- (e) for the purpose of a claim by the woman to a Category A retirement pension, to any year during any part of which a widow's benefit (other than a widow's pension payable at a rate reduced under section 21(2) of the Act) or benefit under section 27(4) of the Act corresponding to a widow's pension or a widowed mother's allowance would have been payable to her as a widow but for—
- (i) her absence from Great Britain,
  - (ii) the operation of the provisions of regulations made under paragraph 3 of Schedule 10 to the Act (overlapping benefits), or
  - (iii) her failure to make, or delay in making, a claim to the benefit; and
- (f) for the purpose of a claim by the woman to a Category A retirement pension, where she has been a widow and has remarried, to any year during any week in which any of the following benefits, namely—
- (i) any personal death benefit under the Industrial Injuries Act; and
  - (ii) any personal death benefit by way of pension or allowance (not being a grant payable by reason of the beneficiary being in receipt of a pension and being over 65 years of age or a pension or allowance calculated by reference to the necessities of the beneficiary) under any Personal Injuries Scheme or Service Pensions Instrument or any 1914-1918 War Injuries Scheme,
- was payable to her as a widow at a rate which equalled or exceeded the weekly rate of widow's pension under the Act, current in that week, as specified in the second column of Part I of Schedule 4 to the Act.

(3) In determining whether a year is a reckonable year for the purpose of a woman's right to a Category A retirement pension, any contribution credited to her by virtue of the provisions of this regulation shall be either taken into or left out of account, whichever course may from time to time be more to her advantage.

(a) S.I. 1973/1376 (1973 II, p. 4245).

(4) Where a woman is in receipt of any personal death benefit by way of pension or allowance payable to her as a widow under the Industrial Injuries Act, any Personal Injuries Scheme, any Service Pensions Instrument or any 1914-1918 War Injuries Scheme, any Category A retirement pension which is payable to her wholly or in part by taking into account contributions credited to her by virtue of the provisions of this regulation shall, for the purposes of regulations made under paragraph 3 of Schedule 10 to the Act (overlapping benefits), be treated as payable, wholly or in part, by virtue of her husband's contributions:

Provided that, in the case of a woman who has been a widow more than once, the provisions of this paragraph shall apply in relation only to contributions credited to her as the widow of her last husband.

Special provision relating to retirement pensions for widows entitled to widow's benefit

7.—(1) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (2) of this regulation, where a woman is entitled to widow's benefit or benefit under section 27(4) of the Act corresponding to a widow's pension or a widowed mother's allowance immediately before she attains pensionable age or would be so entitled but for one or more of the following causes—

- (a) her imprisonment or detention in legal custody;
- (b) her cohabitation with a man as his wife;
- (c) the operation of the provisions of regulations made under paragraph 3 of Schedule 10 to the Act (overlapping benefits);
- (d) her failure to make, or delay in making, a claim to the benefit,

she shall be deemed to have satisfied the first contribution condition for a Category A retirement pension specified in paragraph 5 of Schedule 3 to the Act.

(2) The provisions of regulation 3(6) of these regulations, other than subparagraph (a), shall apply in relation to paragraph (1) of this regulation as they apply to paragraph (1) (a) of that regulation.

Special provision relating to disqualification of married women for unemployment benefit

8. The question whether a married woman is subject to any of the disqualifications for unemployment benefit contained in section 14(2) of the Act shall be determined on the same basis as that applicable to a single woman, but not so as to exclude such consideration of the responsibilities arising from her marriage as is reasonable in the circumstances of the case.

Benefit at reduced rates for persons who do not satisfy the contribution conditions in full

9.—(1) Where a widow or a woman whose marriage has been terminated otherwise than by the death of her husband would be entitled to a widowed mother's allowance, a widow's pension or a Category A or a Category B retirement pension but for the fact that the second contribution condition specified in paragraph 5 of Schedule 3 to the Act is not satisfied, she shall be entitled to that benefit at a reduced rate calculated as a percentage of the rate specified in relation to the benefit in question in Part I of Schedule 4 to the Act, the percentage being ascertained in accordance with paragraph (3) or (4) of this regulation; but where the percentage so ascertained is less than 25 per cent. no such benefit shall be payable under this paragraph.

(2) Where a woman, who would be entitled to an increase of benefit under section 31 or 35 of the Act but for the fact that the second contribution condition specified in paragraph 5 of Schedule 3 to the Act is not satisfied, is entitled to benefit under paragraph (1) of this regulation, the latter benefit shall be increased—

(a) in the case of a child dependant, by the amount specified in relation to the benefit in question in column (2), (3) or (4) (as the case may be) of Part III of Schedule 4 to the Act; and

(b) in the case of an adult dependant, by a percentage of the amount specified in relation to the benefit in question in column (5) of Part III of Schedule 4 to the Act, the percentage being ascertained in accordance with paragraph (3) or (4) of this regulation.

(3) Subject to paragraph (4) of this regulation the percentage referred to in paragraphs (1) and (2) of this regulation shall be ascertained by taking the number of reckonable years in the working life of the contributor concerned, and expressing that number as a percentage of the requisite number of years specified for that working life in paragraph 5(4) of Schedule 3 to the Act; and where the percentage so expressed is not a whole number it shall be rounded up to the nearest whole number.

(4) For the purpose only of ascertaining the rate of a Category A retirement pension, the percentage referred to in paragraphs (1) and (2) of this regulation shall be ascertained, when it is more beneficial to the woman concerned to ascertain it under this paragraph than under paragraph (3), by taking the number of years arrived at under paragraph 2 or 3 (whichever is the greater) of Schedule 8 to the Act, in the case of a widow, or the number of years arrived at under paragraph 2 or 3 (whichever is the greater) of the Schedule to these regulations, in the case of a woman whose marriage has been terminated otherwise than by the death of her husband, and expressing that number as a percentage of the requisite number of years specified for the working life of the woman in paragraph 5(4) of Schedule 3 to the Act; and where the percentage so expressed is not a whole number it shall be rounded up to the nearest whole number.

Voidable marriages and presumption of death

10. For the purposes of regulations 2, 4, 5 and 9 of these regulations and regulation 7(9) of the Widow's Benefit, Retirement Pension and Other Benefits (Transitional) Regulations 1974(a)—

(a) a voidable marriage which has been annulled shall be treated as if it had been a valid marriage which was terminated by divorce at the date of the annulment; and

(a) S.I. 1974/1757(1974 III, p. 6264).

- (b) a woman who has obtained a decree absolute of presumption of death and dissolution of marriage shall, notwithstanding that the man whose death has been presumed is dead, be treated as a woman whose marriage has been terminated otherwise than by the death of her husband unless the date of his death is established to the satisfaction (as respects regulations 2, 4(1) or (3) or 5 of these regulations or the said regulation 7(9)) of the Secretary of State or (as respects regulation 4(2) or 9 of these regulations) of the determining authority; and, in relation to a woman who is so treated, the marriage in question shall be treated as having been terminated on the date of the decree absolute.

Transitional provisions

11.—(1) In the case of a woman whose marriage has been terminated otherwise than by the death of her husband, whose husband was insured under the National Insurance Act 1965(a) and who has the contributions of her husband treated, by virtue of regulation 4(1) of, and the Schedule to, these regulations as if they were contributions of her own so as to entitle her to a Category A retirement pension—

- (a) paragraph 2(a) of the said Schedule shall apply with the substitution for the words “the year in which the woman attained the age of 16” of the words “the first year of the woman’s working life”, and paragraph 3(a) of the said Schedule shall apply with the addition, after the words “married the husband”, of the words “or, if later, the first year of her working life”; and
- (b) the number of any reckonable years which were or could have been obtained by her husband under paragraph 7(2) of the Widow’s Benefit, Retirement Pension and Other Benefits (Transitional) Regulations 1974 and which may be taken into account towards her entitlement to a Category A retirement pension shall, in any case where that entitlement is based on paragraph 2 or 3, as the case may be, of the Schedule to these regulations, not exceed such number of years, in the period specified in paragraph 2(a) or 3(a), as the case may be, of that Schedule, as fall before 6th April 1975, and the number of any reckonable years so obtained by her which may be taken into account towards that entitlement in any such case shall not exceed such number of years in the period specified in paragraph 2(c) or 3(c)(i) and (ii), as the case may be, of that Schedule, as fall before that date.

(2) Notwithstanding their repeal by section 100(2) of and Schedule 28 to the Act, sections 22(4) and 102 of the National Insurance Act 1965 shall continue in force to the extent necessary to enable regulation 13(2) and (3) of the National Insurance (Married Women) Regulations 1973(b) (credits for widows) to continue in force for transitional purposes.

Modifications of the Act

12. The provisions of Part I of the Act shall have effect subject to the modifications contained in these regulations.

Barbara Castle,
Secretary of State for Social Services.

3rd December 1974.

THE SCHEDULE

Regulation 4(1)

METHOD OF TREATING FORMER HUSBAND'S CONTRIBUTIONS AS THOSE OF HIS FORMER WIFE, SO AS TO ENTITLE HER TO CATEGORY A RETIREMENT PENSION

1. There shall be taken into account towards the woman's entitlement any reckonable contribution years of the former husband, that is to say years for which his own earnings factor was sufficient for satisfaction of paragraph (b) of the second contribution condition; and the woman shall be treated as satisfying that paragraph if the number of years arrived at either under paragraph 2 or under paragraph 3 below is equal to or exceeds that which is in her case the requisite number of years for the purposes of the condition.

2. The number of years arrived at under this paragraph is that which is obtained by—

- (a) taking the number of years between (inclusive) the year in which the woman attained the age of 16 and (inclusive) the year in which the marriage was terminated and—
  - (i) multiplying it by the number of the husband's reckonable contribution years falling wholly before the date of that termination, and
  - (ii) dividing it by the number of years in his working life falling wholly before the date of that termination;
- (b) if the resultant quotient is not a whole number, rounding it up to the nearest whole number; and
- (c) adding to the number of years arrived at under sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) above any number of years after that in which the marriage was terminated, being years for which the woman's own earnings factor was sufficient for satisfaction by her of paragraph (b) of the second contribution condition.

3. The number of years arrived at under this paragraph is that which is obtained by—

- (a) taking the number of years between (inclusive) the year in which the woman married the husband and (inclusive) the year in which the marriage was terminated; and
  - (i) multiplying it by the number of the husband's reckonable contribution years falling wholly before the date of that termination, and
  - (ii) dividing it by the number of years in his working life falling wholly before the date of that termination;

- (b) if the resultant quotient is not a whole number, rounding it up to the nearest whole number; and
- (c) adding to the number of years arrived at under paragraphs (a) and (b) above any number of years—
  - (i) before that in which she became married to the husband, and
  - (ii) after that in which the marriage was terminated, being years for which her own earnings factor was sufficient for satisfaction by her of paragraph (b) of the second contribution condition.

4. In this Schedule, "the second contribution condition" means the second condition for a Category A retirement pension specified in paragraph 5 of Schedule 3 to the Act.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations.)

These Regulations modify the Social Security Act 1973 in its application to women who are or have been married. The main provisions relate to crediting contributions, or deeming contribution conditions satisfied, in the case of certain widows and other women whose marriages have been terminated (regulations 2-7), the determining of the basis on which the disqualifications for unemployment benefit contained in section 14(2) of the Act shall be applied to married women (regulation 8), the provision of certain benefits at reduced rates for certain women who do not satisfy the contribution conditions in full (regulation 9), and the treatment of voidable marriages and presumption of death (regulation 10).

These Regulations, being made before the day appointed for the coming into force of section 2 of the Social Security Act 1973, by virtue of section 48(2) of and paragraph 16 of Schedule 12 to that Act are not required to be referred to the National Insurance Advisory Committee and no such reference has been made.
