EXPLANATORY NOTE

The Protocol with the Republic of Ireland scheduled to this Order makes two amendments to the Convention which is scheduled to the Double Taxation Relief (Taxes on Income) (Republic of Ireland) Order 1976.

The amendments relate to certain income and capital gains derived from one country by a resident of the other.

The Convention provides that dividends are to be exempt from income tax in the source country if the recipient is a charity or superannuation scheme which is exempt from tax in its residence country. The Protocol extends this exemption to dividends which the residence country exempts from tax because they are referable to an insurance company's pension business.

The Protocol also gives charities, superannuation schemes and the pension business of insurance companies similar reciprocal exemptions from the taxes listed in Article 2(1) of the Convention on income from immovable property and on capital gains from the alienation of immovable property or related movable property.
