EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations.)

These Regulations amend the Mines and Quarries (Fees for Approvals) Regulations 1980 which set out the fees payable to the Health and Safety Executive in respect of the approval and testing of plant, apparatus and substances for use in mines and quarries.

Most of the fees are increased, the rate of increase being from 2.5% to 30%, except for the original approvals of explosives and signalling apparatus (both 50%) and for the variation of an approval for signalling apparatus (35.8%). However there is no increase for original approvals of breathing apparatus and dust respirators, nor for the variation of such approvals. There is also no increase for the testing of detonators and mortar shot.

The Regulations revoke the Mines and Quarries (Fees for Approvals) (Amendment) Regulations 1982.
