EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations amend the National Health Service (Payments for Optical Appliances) (Scotland) Regulations 1986 which provide for payments to be made, by means of a voucher system, in respect of the cost of optical appliances supplied to certain categories of persons following a sight test under the National Health Service in Scotland.

The amendments made by regulation 2 concern the inclusion in the face value of the voucher of a supplement for the cost of unusually small glasses, typically for very young children. The amendments alter the type of glasses which qualify for the supplement from glasses prescribed for a person whose pupils are not more than 60 millimetres apart to glasses with lens apertures the datum centres of which are not more than 56 millimetres apart (“small glasses”).

Regulation 2(2) makes it a condition of payment by the responsible Board that where the supplier’s claim for payment includes the supplement for small glasses, the supplier must certify that small glasses were supplied.

Regulation 3 provides that the amendments do not affect vouchers issued before the coming into force of these Regulations.
