TELECOMMUNICATIONS

The Satellite Communications Services Regulations 1995

Made	- - - -	24th July 1995
Laid before Parliament		24th July 1995
Coming into force	- -	14th August 1995

The Secretary of State, being a Minister designated⁽¹⁾ for the purposes of section 2(2) of the European Communities Act 1972⁽¹⁾ in respect of measures relating to competition in the markets for satellite communications and telecommunications services other than public voice telephony, mobile and telex services, and satellite communications and telecommunications terminal equipment in exercise of the power conferred by the said section 2(2), and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, hereby makes the following Regulations:

Citation and commencement

1. These Regulations may be cited as the Satellite Communications Services Regulations 1995 and shall come into force on 14th August 1995.

Interpretation and effect

2.—(1) In these Regulations—

“the Act” means the Telecommunications Act 1984⁽²⁾;

“the Directive” means Commission Directive 94/46/EC⁽³⁾ amending Directive 88/301/EEC⁽⁴⁾ and Directive 90/388/EEC⁽⁵⁾ in particular with regard to satellite communications;

“EEA State” means a State, not being a member State⁽⁶⁾, which is a Contracting Party to the European Economic Area Agreement;

“licence” means, save in paragraph (3) of this regulation, a licence to run a telecommunications system granted pursuant to section 7 of the Act;

(1) S.I.No.1995/751.

(1) S.I.No.1995/751.

(2) 1984 c. 12.

(3) OJ No. L268, 19.10.94, p.15.

(4) OJ No. L131, 27.5.88, p.73.

(5) OJ No. L192, 24.7.90, p.10.

(6) On 1st January 1995, Finland, Sweden and Austria became members of the European Community. Whilst the Aland Islands were not regarded as part of Finland for the purposes of the EEA Agreement, they are part of the European Community for the purposes of these Regulations.

“network termination point” means all physical connections and their technical access specifications which form part of the public telecommunications network and are necessary for access to and efficient communication through that public network;

“public voice telephony” means the commercial provision for the public of the direct transport and switching of speech in real-time between public switched network (or the equivalent in such other State) termination points, enabling any user to use equipment connected to such a network termination point in order to communicate with any other network termination point;

“satellite earth station” means a station for wireless telegraphy established for the purposes of providing uplinks and downlinks between itself and space segment; and

“satellite services” means the provision of satellite communications services or the provision of satellite network services or both; and in this definition—

- (a) “satellite communication services” means any service other than radio or television broadcasting to the public whose provision makes use, wholly or partly, of satellite network services; and
- (b) “satellite network services” means the establishment and operation of satellite earth station networks; these services consist, as a minimum, in the establishment, by satellite earth stations, of radiocommunications to space segment (“uplinks”), and in the establishment of radiocommunications between space segment and satellite earth stations (“downlinks”).

(2) Words and expressions used in these Regulations shall, unless the context otherwise requires, have the same meaning as in the Act.

(3) Nothing in these Regulations shall be taken as dispensing with the requirement for a licence granted under section 1 of the Wireless Telegraphy Act 1949 for the establishment and use of any satellite earth station.

Licencees authorised to provide full range of satellite services in traffic between the United Kingdom, and the European Community and European Economic Area

3. The Schedule hereto shall have effect for the purposes of amending the licences specified therein to permit the provision of all satellite services, other than those consisting in public voice telephony, between a network termination point in the United Kingdom and a network termination point in another member State or EEA State, to comply with the requirements of the Directive.

24th July 1995

Ian Taylor
Minister for Science and Technology,
Department of Trade and Industry

SCHEDULE

PART I

licences granted to public telecommunications operators

1. In the licences the titles and dates of grant of which are listed in the table below, there shall be substituted for paragraph 3(e) of the Service Authorisation in Schedule 3 to each such licence the following sub-paragraph—

“any service consisting in the transmission of Messages to or the reception of Messages from earth orbiting apparatus where such Messages consist in live speech and have been or are to be conveyed both:

(i) by means of a Public Switched Network in the United Kingdom; and

(ii) by means of the equivalent of a Public Switched Network in another country or territory;

provided that, in relation to such services provided between a network termination point in the United Kingdom and a network termination point in another member State of the European Community or an EEA State, this sub-paragraph shall have effect as if it provided as follows:

“any service consisting in public voice telephony involving the transmission of Messages to or the reception of Messages from earth orbiting apparatus where such messages have been or are to be conveyed both:

(i) by means of a Public Switched Network in the United Kingdom; and

(ii) by means of the equivalent of a Public Switched Network in another member State of the European Community or EEA State,”and in this sub-paragraph—

(aa) “public voice telephony” means the commercial provision for the public of the direct transport and switching of speech in real-time between public switched network (or the equivalent in such other State) termination points, enabling any user to use equipment connected to such a network termination point in order to communicate with any other network termination point; and

(bb) “EEA State” means a State, not being a member State of the European Community, which is a Contracting Party to the European Economic Area Agreement.”.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations implement Commission Directive 94/46/EC which provides for the removal of special and exclusive rights in respect of fixed satellite communication services, other than public voice telephony, between the United Kingdom and other member States and members of the EEA and of the market for satellite earth station equipment by amending Directives 88/301/EEC and 90/388/EEC. There are no special or exclusive rights in respect of satellite earth station equipment in the United Kingdom. The obligations in respect of satellite communication services are given effect to by detailed amendment of the service authorisations in each of the individual licences granted under the Telecommunications Act 1984 and authorising the provision of telecommunication services by means of satellites, so as to authorise the provision of all telecommunication services, other than public voice telephony and mobile services, by means of satellites between a network termination point in the United Kingdom and another such point elsewhere in the European Community or the EEA.
