EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations amend the Jobseeker's Allowance Regulations 1996 (S.I.1996/207).

Regulation 2(2) amends regulation 18(1) to increase the minimum number of steps that a jobseeker must take to be actively seeking employment from at least two to at least three in a week, unless taking one or two steps is all that it is reasonable to do in that week.

Regulation 2(3) amends regulation 72(6)(b) concerning good cause for refusing or failing to carry out a jobseeker's direction or to apply for or accept employment to which a jobseeker has been referred by an employment officer or which has been offered in a qualifying former employment. Where the failure relates to the travelling time between the jobseeker's home and the place of employment or the place mentioned in the jobseeker's direction, a jobseeker will not generally have good cause if the time is less than one hour and thirty minutes either way. During the first 13 weeks of entitlement to a jobseeker's allowance a jobseeker will not have good cause for such a refusal or failure if the travelling time is less than one hour either way. Previously, in all cases, a jobseeker did not have good cause if the travelling time was less than one hour either way.

The Report of the Social Security Advisory Committee dated 10th February 2004 on the proposals referred to them in respect of these Regulations, together with a statement showing the extent to which the proposals give effect to the Recommendations of the Committee, and in so far as they do not give effect to them, the reasons why not, are contained in Command Paper Cm. 6145 published by The Stationery Office Ltd.

A full regulatory impact assessment has not been produced for this instrument as it has no impact on the costs of business.
