2005 No. 1390

The Unfitness to Stand Trial and Insanity (Army) Regulations 2005

Amendment of requirements of order

15.—(1) Without prejudice to the provisions of regulation 14 above, but subject to paragraph (2) below, a magistrates' court acting for the local justice area concerned or (as the case may be) a judicial officer may, on the application of the supervised person or the supervising officer in accordance with regulation 12 above, by order amend a supervision order—

- (a) by cancelling any of the requirements of the order; or
- (b) by inserting in the order (either in addition to or in substitution for any such requirement) any requirement which the magistrates' court or judicial officer could include if it or he were the court-martial by which the order was made and were then making the order.

(2) The power of a magistrates' court or judicial officer under paragraph (1) above shall not include power to amend an order by extending the period specified in it beyond the end of two years from the day of the original order.
