The Occupational and Personal Pension

Made - - - - 15th February 2006
Coming into force in accordance with regulation 1(2)

A draft of this instrument has been laid before Parliament in accordance with section 316(2)(m) and (n) of the Pensions Act 2004 and approved by a resolution of each House of Parliament.

Accordingly, the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions makes the following Regulations:

SCHEDULE

Regulation 17

Employment rights and protections in connection with consultation

1. In this Schedule—

- “the 1996 Act” means the Employment Rights Act 1996 ;
- “consulted representative” has the meaning given by paragraph 2(2);
- “contract of employment” means a contract of service or apprenticeship whether express or implied and (if it is express) whether oral or in writing;
- “employee” means an individual who has entered into or works under a contract of employment and includes, where the employment has ceased, an individual who worked under a contract of employment;
- “employment”, in relation to an employee, means employment under a contract of employment (and “employed” has a corresponding meaning);
- “employer”, in relation to an employee, means the person by whom the employee is (or where employment has ceased, was) employed.

Right to time off and remuneration

2.—(1) An employee who—

- (a) is a representative falling within regulation 12(2)(a) or (3) or 13(2), and
- (b) is consulted under these Regulations about a listed change by a relevant employer, is entitled to be permitted by his employer to take reasonable time off during the employee's working hours in order to perform his functions as such a representative.

(2) In this Schedule “consulted representative” means an employee who satisfies the conditions specified in sub-paragraph (1)(a) and (b).

(3) For the purposes of this paragraph, the working hours of an employee shall be taken to be any time when, in accordance with his contract of employment, the employee is required to be at work.

3.—(1) An employee who is permitted to take time off under paragraph 2 is entitled to be paid remuneration by his employer for the time taken off at the appropriate hourly rate.

(2) Chapter 2 of Part 14 of the 1996 Act (a week's pay) shall apply in relation to this paragraph as it applies in relation to section 62 of the 1996 Act (right to remuneration of certain representatives).

(3) The appropriate hourly rate, in relation to an employee, is the amount of one week's pay divided by the number of normal working hours in a week for that employee when employed under the contract of employment in force on the day when the time is taken off.

(4) But where the number of normal working hours differs from week to week or over a longer period, the amount of one week's pay shall be divided instead by—

- (a) the average number of normal working hours calculated by dividing by twelve the total number of the employee's normal working hours during the period of twelve weeks ending with the last complete week before the day when the time is taken off, or
- (b) where the employee has not been employed for a sufficient period to enable the calculations to be made under paragraph (a), a number which fairly represents the number of normal working hours in a week having regard to such of the considerations specified in sub-paragraph (5) as are appropriate in the circumstances.

(5) The considerations referred to in sub-paragraph (4)(b) are—

- (a) the average number of normal working hours in a week which the employee could expect in accordance with the terms of his contract, and

(b) the average number of normal working hours of other employees engaged in relevant comparable employment with the same employer.

(6) A right to any amount under sub-paragraph (1) does not affect any right of an employee in relation to remuneration under his contract of employment (“contractual remuneration”).

(7) Any contractual remuneration paid to an employee in respect of a period of time off under paragraph 2 goes towards discharging any liability of the employer to pay remuneration under sub-paragraph (1) in respect of that period, and, conversely, any payment of remuneration under sub-paragraph (1) in respect of a period goes towards discharging any liability of the employer to pay contractual remuneration in respect of that period.

4.—(1) An employee may present a complaint to an employment tribunal that his employer—

- (a) has unreasonably refused to permit him to take time off as required by paragraph 2, or
- (b) has failed to pay the whole or part of any amount to which the employee is entitled under paragraph 3.

(2) A tribunal shall not consider a complaint under this paragraph unless it is presented—

- (a) before the end of the period of three months beginning with the day on which the time off was taken or on which it is alleged the time off should have been permitted, or
- (b) within such further period as the tribunal considers reasonable in a case where it is satisfied that it was not reasonably practicable for the complaint to be presented before the end of that period of three months.

[^{F22}(2A) Paragraph 4A (extension of time limits to facilitate conciliation before institution of proceedings) applies for the purposes of sub-paragraph (2).]

(3) Where a tribunal finds a complaint under this paragraph well-founded, the tribunal shall make a declaration to that effect.

(4) If the complaint is that the employer has unreasonably refused to permit the employee to take time off, the tribunal shall also order the employer to pay to the employee an amount equal to the remuneration to which he would have been entitled under paragraph 3 if the employer had not refused.

(5) If the complaint is that the employer has failed to pay the employee the whole or part of any amount to which he is entitled under paragraph 3, the tribunal shall also order the employer to pay to the employee the amount it finds due to him.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations prohibit the making of certain changes to occupational or personal pension schemes unless consultation about the change is carried out beforehand. They also amend the Financial Assistance Scheme (Internal Review) Regulations 2005 (S.I. 2005/1994).

Regulations 3 to 5 specify the persons to whom the Regulations apply. For all occupational or personal pension schemes, these are relevant employers. For occupational pension schemes which have at least one relevant employer, the Regulations also apply to trustees or managers of the scheme and, if the scheme is a multi-employer scheme, to any other person who has power to change the scheme.

Regulation 6 prohibits the making of any change specified in regulation 8 or 9 (“listed changes”) without consultation having been carried out by each relevant employer in relation to the scheme. Regulation 10 specifies certain changes that are excluded. Regulation 7 requires the person who proposes the change to notify all employers in relation to the scheme. If an employer is a relevant employer and has employees who are affected by the change, regulation 7(3) requires him to consult in accordance with regulations 11 to 16.

Regulations 11 to 16 provide for the way in which consultations are to be conducted. Information must be provided under regulation 11. Under regulation 12, where arrangements for consultation already exist, a relevant employer must consult in accordance with those arrangements. He is able to choose one or more of those arrangements and, if any affected members are not covered by such arrangements, he must also consult in accordance with regulation 13. If no consultation arrangements already exist, the employer has to consult in accordance with regulation 13 only. Regulation 13 provides that, where representatives have been specially elected for the purposes of consultation under the Regulations, the employer must consult with them. Regulation 14 sets out the requirements for such an election. If no representatives have been elected, or if the representatives do not represent the interests of all the members who are not covered by any consultation required under regulation 12, the employer must consult directly with the members. Regulation 15 requires the employer to ensure that the consultation covers all affected members so far as is reasonably practicable and outlines a duty of co-operation that applies to those engaged in it. Once the period allowed for consultation is ended, responses to the consultation must be considered under regulation 16.

Regulation 17 introduces the Schedule to the Regulations which makes provision for employment rights and protections in relation to persons who are consulted. Paragraphs 2 to 4 of the Schedule provide that consulted representatives are entitled to time off and remuneration when acting as a representative. Paragraphs 5 to 8 make provision protecting employees, and any representatives who are consulted, against unfair dismissal and other detriment. Paragraph 9 provides for conciliation procedures to be available in any proceedings before an employment tribunal brought under the Schedule and paragraph 10 makes provision for appeals to be made to the Employment Appeal Tribunal on a point of law. Paragraphs 11 to 13 place restrictions on contracting out of the requirements imposed by these Regulations.

Regulations 18 and 19 make provision as to the role of the Pensions Regulator in enforcing the Regulations. Regulation 20 amends the Pensions Act 2004 (c. 35) so that any decision of the Pensions Regulator under regulation 19 to make an order to waive or relax a requirement of the Regulations must be taken by the Determinations Panel established under Part 1 of the Pensions Act 2004. Regulation 21 adds the power under regulation 19 to the list of regulatory functions which are eligible to be carried out under the special procedure in cases of urgency.

Regulation 22 amends the Financial Assistance Scheme (Internal Review) Regulations 2005 to correct a typographical error.

An assessment of the impact on business, charities and the voluntary sector of the provisions in these Regulations is included in the Regulatory Impact Assessment that accompanied the Pensions Act 2004. A copy of that assessment has been placed in the libraries of both Houses of Parliament. Copies can be obtained by post from the Department for Work and Pensions, Better Regulation Unit, 4th Floor, The Adelphi, 1-11 John Adam Street, London WC2N 6HT.
