Amendment to Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations 1999

2. For regulation 22 of the Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations 1999<sup>M5</sup> there shall be substituted the following regulation —

“Restriction of civil liability for breach of statutory duty

22.—(1) Breach of a duty imposed on an employer by these Regulations shall not confer a right of action in any civil proceedings insofar as that duty applies for the protection of a third party.

(2) Breach of a duty imposed on an employee by regulation 14 shall not confer a right of action in any civil proceedings insofar as that duty applies for the protection of a third party.

(3) In this regulation, “third party”, in relation to the undertaking, means any person who may be affected by that undertaking other than the employer whose undertaking it is and persons in his employment.”.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

1. These Regulations amend regulation 22 of the Management of Health and Safety at Work Regulations 1999 (“the 1999 Regulations”), which concerns civil liability for breach of the duties imposed by those Regulations.

2. The Management of Health and Safety at Work and Fire Precautions (Workplace) (Amendment) Regulations 2003 (S.I 2003/2457) amended regulation 22 of the 1999 Regulations so as to activate the statutory presumption of civil liability contained in section 47(2) of the Health and Safety at Work etc. Act 1974, subject to a specific limitation. The effect was to permit civil claims to be brought against employers and employees who are in breach of duties imposed on them by those Regulations but the amendment provided that claims could not be brought against employers insofar as the duty applies for the protection of persons not in their employment, that is, third parties.

3. The effect of these Regulations is to extend to employees that protection against claims by third parties, in circumstances where employees may owe a duty to third parties under regulation 14 of the 1999 Regulations.
