The Chancellor of the Exchequer has made the following statement regarding Human Rights:

In my view the provisions of the International Monetary Fund (Limit on Lending) Order 2010 are compatible with the Convention rights.

7. Policy background

- What is being done and why

- 7.1 Recent events have underscored the need to ensure the IMF has adequate resources to respond to requests for assistance. Swift implementation of the G20 agreement to increase the IMF's lending capacity is necessary.

7.2 In April 2009, the G20 agreed to triple the resources available to the IMF to $750 billion. The G20 chose to use the New Arrangements to Borrow (NAB) as the vehicle to deliver this commitment.¹ The G20 agreed to expand the NAB by $500 billion, and to make it more flexible.

7.3 The UK's $15 billion bilateral loan to the IMF, which came into effect in September 2009, will be rolled into the NAB. During G20 negotiations last year, the UK agreed to provide up to an additional $11 billion on top of existing credit lines to the IMF to the expansion of the NAB.

7.4 The expanded NAB will become effective once countries have completed domestic legislative procedures. For the UK, this requires an increase to the limit on lending to the IMF. This limit is set under the International Monetary Fund Act 1979.

7.5 The current limit on UK lending to the IMF is 12.47 billion Special Drawing Rights (SDRs). The SDR is a unit of account used by the IMF. Its value is calculated daily as a weighted average of the US dollar, euro, yen and pound sterling. The current limit is equivalent to approximately £12.4 billion.² A new limit of SDR 18.65738 billion (approximately £18.6 billion³) will enable an increased UK contribution to the NAB.

7.6 The IMF has amended its NAB Decision to reflect changes in credit arrangements and reforms to the NAB framework. Text of the amendments will be made available in the Library of the House on the date this SI is laid.
