1963 CHAPTER 24

An Act to amend the law with respect to the transfer of securities. [15th October 1963]

^{F1} Simplified transfer of securities.

- (1) Registered securities to which this section applies may be transferred by means of an instrument under hand in the form set out in Schedule 1 (in this Act referred to as a stock transfer), executed by the transferor only and specifying (in addition to the particulars of the consideration, of the description and number or amount of the securities, and of the person by whom the transfer is made) the full name and address of the transferee.

- (3) Nothing in this section shall be construed as affecting the validity of any instrument which would be effective to transfer securities apart from this section; and any instrument purporting to be made in any form which was common or usual before the commencement of this Act, or in any other form authorised or required for that purpose apart from this section, shall be sufficient, whether or not it is completed in accordance with the form, if it complies with the requirements as to execution and contents which apply to a stock transfer.
