INTRODUCTORY

1 Principles for discharging certain functions

(1) Subsections (2) to (4) below apply whenever a person who does not fall within subsection (7) below is discharging a function by virtue of this Act in relation to a patient who has attained the age of 18 years.

(2) In discharging the function the person shall, subject to subsection (9) below, have regard to the matters mentioned in subsection (3) below in so far as they are relevant to the function being discharged.

(3) The matters referred to in subsection (2) above are—
(a) the present and past wishes and feelings of the patient which are relevant to the discharge of the function;
(b) the views of—
(4) After having regard to—
   (a) the matters mentioned in subsection (3) above;
   (b) if subsections (5) and (6) below apply, the matters mentioned there; and
   (c) such other matters as are relevant in the circumstances, the person shall discharge the function in the manner that appears to the person to be the manner that involves the minimum restriction on the freedom of the patient that is necessary in the circumstances.

(5) Whenever a person who does not fall within subsection (7) below is discharging a function by virtue of this Act (other than the making of a decision about medical treatment) in relation to a patient, the person shall have regard, in so far as it is reasonable and practicable to do so, to—
   (a) the needs and circumstances of any carer of the patient which are relevant to the discharge of the function and of which the person is aware; and (b) the importance of providing such information to any carer of the patient as might assist the carer to care for the patient.

(6) Whenever a person who does not fall within subsection (7) below is discharging a function by virtue of this Act in relation to a person who is, or has been, subject to—detention certificate”);

   (c) an order made under section 64(4)(a) of this Act (any such order being referred to in this Act as a “compulsory treatment order”); or (d) an order made under [F1 section 57(2)(a) or 57A(2)] of the 1995 Act (any such order being referred to in this Act as a “compulsion order”), the person who is discharging the function shall have regard to the importance of the provision of appropriate services to the person who is, or has been, subject to the certificate or order concerned (including, without prejudice to that generality, the provision of continuing care when the person is no longer subject to the certificate or order).

(7) A person falls within this subsection if the person is discharging the function by virtue of being—
   (a) the patient;
   (b) the patient’s named person;
   (c) the patient’s primary carer;
   (d) a person providing independent advocacy services to the patient under section 259 of this Act;
   (e) the patient’s legal representative;
   (f) a curator ad litem appointed by the Tribunal in respect of the patient;
   (g) a guardian of the patient; or
   (h) a welfare attorney of the patient.

(8) In subsection (3)(a) above, the reference to wishes and feelings of the patient is a reference to those wishes and feelings in so far as they can be ascertained by any means of communication, whether human or by mechanical aid (whether of an interpretative nature or otherwise), appropriate to the patient.

(9) The person need not have regard to the views of a person mentioned in subsection (3) (b) above in so far as it is unreasonable or impracticable to do so.

(10) In subsection (3)(d) above, the reference to information is to information in the form that is mostly likely to be understood by the patient.

(11) In this section, a reference to “discharging”, in relation to a power, includes a reference to exercising the power by taking no action; and “discharge” shall be construed accordingly.

   (a) the ways the person making it wishes to be treated for mental disorder;
   (b) the ways the person wishes not to be so treated, in the event of the person’s becoming mentally disordered and the person’s ability to make decisions about the matters referred to in paragraphs (a) and (b) above being, because of that, significantly impaired.

(2) An advance statement complies with this subsection if—
   (a) at the time of making it, the person has the capacity of properly intending the wishes specified in it;
   (b) it is in writing;
   (c) it is subscribed by the person making it;
   (d) that person’s subscription of it is witnessed by a person (the “witness”) who is

(c) that any measures or treatment which might or will be authorised by virtue of the decision referred to in subsection (1) above or might or will, by virtue of that decision, no longer be authorised correspond to any wishes specified in the statement; and

(d) that, since the person made the statement, there has been no change of circumstances which, were the person to have been considering making the statement at the time the Tribunal is making the decision referred to in subsection (1) above, would have been likely to cause the person not to make the statement or to make a substantially different one.

(3) A person giving medical treatment authorised by virtue of this Act or the 1995 Act to a patient who is a person—

(a) who has made and not withdrawn an advance statement; and
