

SCHEDULE 10

Information to be supplied in the event of a Radiation Emergency

4. Where an occurrence which is likely to give rise to a release of radioactivity or ionising radiation has happened but no release has yet taken place, the information and advice should include the following—

- (a) an invitation to tune in to radio or television;
- (b) preparatory advice to establishments with particular collective responsibilities; and
- (c) recommendations to occupational groups particularly affected.
