(3) If an employee on war service satisfies the requirements of paragraph (1) of this regulation—

- (a) he shall, for the purpose of these regulations, be treated as if he had remained in the employment of his last employer before his war service throughout that service and for any period thereafter during which he would, but for his war service, have been so employed, not being a period during which he was in other employment to which paragraph (1) of regulation 2 applies:

Provided that he shall only be so treated if and to the extent that he was, or would but for the passing of the Act or of the National Insurance Act, 1946, passed by the Parliament of the United Kingdom have been, so treated by that employer, and he shall not in any case be so treated in respect of any period on or after the appointed day; and

PART IV

Determination of compensation

9.—(1) A person desiring to make a claim for compensation under these regulations shall make his claim in a form approved by the Ministry for the purpose, and shall deliver his claim to the Ministry.

(2) A claimant, if so required by the Ministry, shall attend before a person appointed by it for the purpose, and answer all questions asked by that person touching the matters set forth in his claim, and shall furnish such documentary and other evidence as may be required to support his claim.

(3) A claimant required to attend before a person appointed by the Ministry pursuant to paragraph (2) of this regulation may further be required to make a statutory declaration as to the truth of any of the answers given by him to questions asked on the occasion of such attendance touching the matters set forth in his claim.

10. On receipt of a claim for compensation under these regulations, the Ministry shall consider whether the claimant satisfies the conditions of eligibility for the payment of compensation set out in regulations 2, 3, 4 and 7 and, if it is satisfied that those conditions are not fulfilled, shall reject the claim and advise the claimant accordingly.

11. If the Ministry accepts the claim, then, unless it is satisfied either that there has been no attributable loss of employment or that the claimant has substantially made good his loss by virtue of having obtained other employment or is a pensionable employee over maximum retiring age at the date of the loss of employment (or the date of the claim, if that is more than three months after either the date of the loss of employment or the date of coming into operation of these regulations whichever is the later), it shall commence to make an interim payment of compensation (hereafter in these regulations called "interim compensation") to the claimant subject to and in accordance with the provisions of regulation 12.

Conditions
for interim
tion.

12.—(1) Subject to the provisions of these regulations, the interim compensation shall be payable as from the date of the loss of employment (or the date of the claim, if that is more than three months after either the date of the loss of employment or the date of coming into operation of these regulations whichever is the later), and shall be at a rate not exceeding two-thirds of the net emoluments of the employment which the claimant lost, less two-thirds of any unemployment benefit to which he may be entitled, and shall continue until the expiration of three months after the date as from which it is payable or until the death of the claimant if that is earlier.

(2) In determining the amount of any interim compensation, the Ministry shall have regard to any payments to which the claimant becomes entitled (either before or after the date of the claim), in consequence of the loss of his employment, under any contract or arrangement with the society or body by whom he was employed.

(3) The interim compensation shall be paid at intervals equivalent to those at which the said emoluments were previously payable (or at such other intervals as may be agreed with the claimant), and it may be reduced or terminated if during its currency the claimant obtains other employment or if the claimant is not over normal maximum retiring age and the Ministry is satisfied that he is not actively seeking employment or has unreasonably refused employment which has been offered to him.

(4) If the claimant obtains other employment, he shall immediately notify the Ministry in writing accordingly.

(5) The Ministry may require, as a condition of making any payment of interim compensation, that the claimant—

(a) shall be registered for employment at a local office or at the Appointments Department of the Ministry; and

(b) if eligible to apply for alternative State employment, shall have applied for, and not unreasonably refused, such employment.

(6) There shall be deducted from any payments made under this regulation in respect of any period in respect of which provisional payments have been made on account of compensation under the Compensation (Temporary Provisions) Regulations the amount of such provisional payments so far as they do not exceed the payments due under this regulation in respect of that period.

(7) In determining whether, for the purposes of this regulation or of regulation 15, a claimant has been unreasonable in refusing an offer of alternative State employment, regard shall be had to the duties and conditions generally applying to persons in the rank or grade in which employment was offered to the claimant, and it shall not be deemed to be a reasonable ground for refusing alternative State employment that he would have been required to perform different work from that which he formerly performed or that he would have been, or might in the future be, required to transfer to some other place of work in Northern Ireland.

13. Having determined the amount of the interim compensation (if any) to be paid under the two last preceding regulations to a claimant whose claim has been accepted, the Ministry shall as soon as practicable assess the amount (if any) of the compensation payable under the succeeding provisions of this Part of these regulations, and shall notify the claimant in writing of its decision. <sup>(if Assessment of compensation.)</sup>

14.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this regulation, at any time after the date on which any decision is notified to a claimant under regulation 13, the Ministry may, in the light of any substantial change in the circumstances of the case, review the decision or, if any such decision has been referred to a tribunal, the decision of the tribunal, as the case may be, and on any review the Ministry may, in the light of any such change, award compensation or increase or reduce the amount of any compensation awarded. <sup>(Review of decisions.)</sup>

(2) Subject as aforesaid, a person to whom a decision under regulation 13 has been notified may, at intervals of not less than six months, request the Ministry to review its decision or the decision of the tribunal, as the case may be, if he considers that there has been a substantial change in the circumstances of his case.

(3) No such review or request for a review as is mentioned in the two preceding paragraphs shall, save in exceptional circumstances, be made—

- (a) in the case of a non-absorbed person, more than two years after the date of his claim; or
- (b) in the case of an absorbed person, more than two years after he ceases to be in employment by virtue of which he is an absorbed person:

Provided that nothing in this paragraph shall prevent the review of a decision where—

- (i) an award of compensation has been made by error; or
- (ii) the Ministry has reason to believe that the award has been obtained by improper means.

(4) Where the Ministry reviews a decision in the case of a person who has not previously received interim compensation, and that person has become unemployed since he made his claim, the Ministry may, in its discretion, pay interim compensation pending the decision on the review as if the decision were a decision on a claim.

(5) The Ministry shall notify the claimant in writing of its decision on any review under the preceding provisions of this regulation.

(6) The decision on a review shall take effect from the date of the change of circumstances on which it is based, or from such later date, not being later than the date of the request made in accordance with paragraph (2) of this regulation, as the Ministry may in its discretion determine.

(7) It shall be the duty of a claimant immediately to notify the Ministry in writing of any new employment obtained by him or of any material increase in his earnings or any other change for the better in the circumstances affecting his entitlement to compensation :

Provided that the provisions of this paragraph shall not apply to a claimant—

- (a) in the case of a non-absorbed person, more than two years after the date of his claim ; or
- (b) in the case of an absorbed person, more than two years after he ceases to be in employment by virtue of which he is an absorbed person.

Matters to be considered in assessing compensation. 15.—(1) For the purpose of determining whether any compensation, apart from interim compensation, is payable to any person under these regulations during any period until normal maximum retiring age, and if so the amount thereof, the Ministry shall have regard—

- (a) to any increase in the net emoluments of the claimant which he has obtained by virtue of the Act or anything done in pursuance thereof or in consequence of or in anticipation of the coming into force of the new scheme of insurance and for the purpose of this regulation the expressions “ the Act ” and “ the new scheme of insurance ” shall be deemed to include, respectively, the National Insurance Act, 1946, passed by the Parliament of the United Kingdom and the scheme of insurance established thereunder ;
- (b) to the conditions upon which his appointment was made, and the nature of the employment ;
- (c) if he has suffered an attributable loss of employment—
  - (i) to any other remunerative work or employment he may have undertaken or obtained in place of the employment he has lost ;
  - (ii) to the amount of any compensation payable to him under the Reinstatement in Civil Employment Act, 1944, or under or in pursuance of any other enactment ;
- (d) to the extent to which he has sought alternative employment and the emoluments which he might have acquired by accepting other employment offered to him ;
- (e) to any provision made for payments to or in respect of him under the Superannuation Acts (Northern Ireland), 1921 to 1947, or the Superannuation Regulations ; and
- (f) to all the other circumstances of his case.

(2) No award of compensation during any period until normal maximum retiring age shall be made under regulation 13 to a person who shall, if eligible to apply for alternative State employment, have neglected to apply for, or unreasonably refused, such employment.

16.—(1) Compensation (other than interim compensation) under these regulations during any period until normal maximum retiring age shall be an annual sum, not exceeding an amount calculated in accordance with the provisions of this regulation, and shall be payable as from the date on which the cause of the claim arises (or the date of the claim, if that is more than three months after either the date on which the cause of the claim arises or the date of coming into operation of these regulations, whichever is the later) : Maximum rate of compensation until normal maximum retiring age.

Provided that—

- (a) in a case where interim compensation is payable, the date as from which compensation shall be payable under this regulation shall be the first day after the expiration of the period for which interim compensation is payable ; and
  - (b) compensation shall not be payable under this regulation for any period after the death of the claimant.
- (2) The said annual sum shall be payable in such instalments and at such intervals as the Ministry may determine, and shall not exceed the aggregate of the following sums, namely:—
- (a) for every year of the claimant's service, one sixtieth of his net emoluments or, in a case of diminution of emoluments, of the amount by which such net emoluments have been diminished ; and
  - (b) in the case of a claimant over the age of forty-five years at the date on which the cause of the claim arises, a further one sixtieth of his net emoluments or, in a case of diminution of emoluments, of the amount by which such net emoluments have been diminished, for every year of service since he attained the age of forty-five :

Provided that the said annual sum shall not exceed two-thirds of the amount by which the annual rate of the claimant's emoluments after the loss or diminution (any percentage thereof which he may be liable to contribute under any pension scheme associated with his employment being disregarded, but regard being had to the emoluments specified in sub-paragraph (d) of paragraph (1) of the last preceding regulation and, in the case of an attributable loss of employment, to the compensation specified in sub-paragraph (c) (ii) of the said paragraph (1)) falls short of his net emoluments, so, however, that, if after the loss or diminution he has a degree of security of tenure in his employment which differs from that which he had before the loss or diminution, the annual rate of his emoluments after the loss or diminution may be treated for the purpose of this proviso as being adjusted by such proportion as appears to the Ministry to be just.

(3) There shall be deducted from any payments made under this regulation in respect of any period in respect of which provisional payments have been made on account of compensation under the Compensation (Temporary Provisions) Regulations the amount of such payments so far as they do not exceed the payments due under this regulation in respect of that period.

Persons in other employment under the Crown.

17. If a person receiving compensation under these regulations at any time obtains employment under the Crown (not being employment by virtue of which he is an absorbed person), he shall not, during any period for which he holds that employment, be entitled to receive any sum by way of compensation under any decision of the Ministry given before he obtained that employment, but any such decision shall be suspended during that period, and the Ministry shall make a new decision as to the compensation (if any) to be paid to him during that period.

Payments in respect of sickness, etc.

18. If a person receiving compensation under these regulations is in respect of any period before he has attained normal maximum retiring age entitled, whether by virtue of the Superannuation Regulations or otherwise, to receive, under a pension scheme associated with employment by virtue of which he is an existing employee, any payments on account of incapacity, ill-health or disablement, the compensation to which he is entitled in respect of that period shall be reduced by the amount of any such payments received by him in respect of that period, so far as they do not exceed such compensation.

Non-pensionable employee over normal maximum retiring age.

19.—(1) Compensation (other than interim compensation) under these regulations in the case of a non-pensionable employee who has attained normal maximum retiring age shall be an annual sum not exceeding an amount calculated in accordance with the provisions of this regulation, and shall be payable from normal maximum retiring age for life:

Provided that—

- (a) compensation under this regulation shall not be payable unless the Ministry is satisfied that the claimant would in the normal course have continued in his employment for a substantial period beyond that age;
- (b) in the case of a person over normal maximum retiring age before the date provided for the commencement of compensation in regulation 16, the compensation shall be payable as from that date.

(2) In the case of a person to whom paragraph (b) of the proviso to the last preceding paragraph does not apply, the rate of compensation under this regulation shall not exceed one half of the rate of the compensation payable to him under regulation 16 immediately before this regulation applied to him.

(3) In the case of a person to whom the said paragraph (b) applies the rate of compensation under this regulation shall not exceed one half of the rate of compensation which would have been payable to him under regulation 16 but for his having attained normal maximum retiring age.

20.—(1) In the case of an existing employee who, when last in Pensionable employment by virtue of which he is an existing employee, had pension <sup>employee</sup> rights under a pension scheme associated with that employment (here- <sup>over normal</sup> after in these regulations called "a pensionable employee"), com- <sup>maximum</sup> pension (other than interim compensation) shall be payable to him <sup>retiring age.</sup> for any period after he attains normal maximum retiring age, subject to and in accordance with the provisions of the next following paragraph.

(2) For the purpose of the last preceding paragraph—

- (a) if the claimant, being a pensionable employee, has attained the age of forty years at the date on which the cause of the claim arises, the Ministry may, for the purpose of assessing the compensation payable to him after normal maximum retiring age, credit him with additional years of service not exceeding one for each year of service between the date on which he attained the age of forty years and the date on which the cause of the claim arises, but not in any case exceeding ten years;
- (b) if a claimant to whom additional years are so credited is entitled to receive payments from the Ministry of Finance in respect of his accrued rights in that pension scheme by virtue of the Superannuation Regulations, the compensation under this regulation shall not exceed the additional pension which would have been payable to him by virtue of those regulations if the additional years so credited to him had been taken into account in determining his said accrued rights;
- (c) in the case of any other claimant to whom additional years are so credited, the compensation under this regulation shall not exceed the additional pension which would have been payable to him under that pension scheme had he continued to be subject thereto without receiving any increase in his emoluments (other than increases by way of increments under his salary scale) for the number of additional years so credited;
- (d) compensation shall be payable under this regulation from normal maximum retiring age for life, except that, in the case of a person over normal maximum retiring age before the date provided for the commencement of compensation in regulation 16, the compensation shall be payable as from that date;

Provided that—

- (i) the amount of the compensation calculated in accordance with this paragraph together with the amount of any payment in respect of accrued rights by virtue of the Superannuation Regulations shall in no case exceed the maximum amount of the pension to which the claimant might have become entitled under the pension scheme had he continued to be subject thereto without receiving any increase in his emoluments (other than increases by way of increments under his salary scale) until attaining normal maximum retiring age;

- (ii) in the case of a claimant (whether or not he has attained the age of forty years at the date on which the cause of the claim arises) who is not entitled to receive payments from the Ministry of Finance in respect of his accrued rights in that pension scheme by virtue of the Superannuation Regulations for the reason that no persons having pension rights in that pension scheme become civil servants, the compensation under this regulation shall not exceed such payments (if any) as he would have been entitled to receive from the Ministry of Finance by virtue of those regulations if any such persons had become civil servants, together (in the case of a claimant to whom additional years are credited under this regulation) with the additional pension which would have been payable to him by virtue of those regulations if those additional years had been taken into account in determining his said accrued rights;
- (iii) a claimant who is in alternative State employment shall not be credited with additional years of service.

(3) Any existing employee, who is not in alternative State employment or a pensionable employee, and who either—

- (a) applies to the Ministry to be treated as a pensionable employee not later than the 5th July, 1949, or such later date as the Ministry may in its discretion allow in any particular case, and proves to the satisfaction of the Ministry within a reasonable time thereafter that he had enjoyed since not later than the 1st January, 1946, by customary practice or otherwise a reasonable expectation of receiving a pension from his employer on retirement; or
- (b) when in employment by virtue of which he is an existing employee formerly had pension rights under a pension scheme associated with that employment, but has lost those rights since the 1st January, 1946;

may, in the discretion of the Ministry and subject, in a case to which sub-paragraph (b) of this paragraph applies, to the provisions of paragraph (1) of regulation 22, be deemed to be a pensionable employee, and, if he is so deemed, his compensation under these regulations shall be assessed by the Ministry as if he had been, or had remained, subject to a pension scheme at the time of the attributable loss of employment, and, in a case to which sub-paragraph (a) of this paragraph applies, as if paragraph (ii) of the proviso to paragraph (2) of this regulation applied to the pension scheme.

(4) If under the Superannuation Regulations the Ministry of Finance has at the request of a claimant, being a pensionable employee, paid a transfer value in respect of the claimant to the trustees or managers of any pension scheme or to any employer, no payment of compensation under these regulations shall thereafter be made to the claimant during any period after he has attained normal maximum retiring age.

21.—(1) For the purpose of determining whether any compensation, Matters to be considered in assessing compensation after normal maximum retiring age. apart from any interim compensation, is payable to any person under these regulations during any period after normal maximum retiring age, and if so the amount thereof, the Ministry shall have regard to the considerations set out in regulation 15, and also—

- (a) to any pension rights enjoyed by the claimant under the pension scheme associated with any employment by virtue of which he is an existing employee, so far as those rights are still subsisting whether by virtue of the Superannuation Regulations or otherwise; and
- (b) (if he has suffered an attributable loss of employment) to any pension rights enjoyed by him under any pension scheme associated with any employment which he may have obtained in place of the employment he has lost; and
- (c) (except where payment is made to the Ministry in accordance with paragraph (1) of regulation 22) to any pension rights which he would have enjoyed under any pension scheme associated with employment by virtue of which he is an existing employee had he not accepted a payment therefrom in respect of his pension rights.

(2) No award of compensation during any period after normal maximum retiring age shall be made under regulation 13 to a person who shall, if eligible to apply for alternative State employment, have neglected to apply for, or unreasonably refused, such employment.

22.—(1) Compensation shall not become payable to any person under regulation 20 or the next following paragraph of this regulation unless Further conditions for compensation after normal maximum retiring age. forthwith on his claim to compensation being accepted he pays to the Ministry the amount of any payment received by him since the 1st January, 1946, in respect of his pension rights under the pension scheme to which he was last subject on his ceasing to be subject thereto:

Provided that the provisions of this paragraph shall be deemed to be satisfied if the said amount is paid into the Exchequer in accordance with the Superannuation Regulations.

(2) Where a pensionable employee is eligible for consideration for the payment of compensation under regulation 20 and the amount of that compensation (if any) would, together with the amount of any superannuation benefits payable to him by virtue of the Superannuation Regulations, be less than the compensation which could be paid to him under regulation 19 had he never had pension rights under any pension scheme, the Ministry may, if it is satisfied that that person has, or would in the normal course have, continued in his former employment for a substantial period beyond normal maximum retiring age, pay him additional compensation not exceeding the amount of the difference :

Provided that in such a case the additional compensation may be calculated, in respect of any period for which that person could but for his being a pensionable employee have received interim compensation, by reference to that interim compensation, so, however, that additional compensation shall not be payable in respect of any period to which this proviso applies unless it is also payable in respect of a subsequent period.

(3) There shall be deducted from any payments made under regulation 19 or regulation 20 or the last preceding paragraph of this regulation in respect of any period in respect of which provisional payments have been made on account of compensation under the Compensation (Temporary Provisions) Regulations the amount of such payments so far as they do not exceed the payments due under regulation 19 or regulation 20 or the said last preceding paragraph in respect of that period.

Special provision for certain approved society pensioners.

23. In the case of any person in respect of whom the following conditions are fulfilled:—

- (a) that he retired from an employment (hereafter in this regulation called "the said employment") on a date after the 31st December, 1945, and upon such retirement became entitled to a pension under a pension scheme associated with the said employment, being a pension scheme in which on the appointed day no persons were interested other than persons employed or formerly employed by an approved society (including any branch thereof) transacting only health insurance business, or any separate section established for the purposes of the Health Insurance Act ;
- (b) that he is an existing employee or, if the said employment did not continue until the 1st August, 1946, he would have been an existing employee if it had continued until that date ;
- (c) that immediately before such retirement his emoluments included a bonus or other additional payment paid on account of war-time conditions and not then consolidated with his emoluments (hereafter in this regulation called "war payments"), and no part of the pension to which he became entitled was in respect of war payments ;

- (d) that, if the society employing him had on the 1st August, 1946, consolidated war payments with the emoluments of persons then in their employment, he would under the pension scheme have been entitled to an increase in his pension in respect of war payments ;
- (e) that it is proved to the satisfaction of the Ministry that the said society refrained from so consolidating war payments in such circumstances that their failure to do so is directly attributable to the passing of the Act or of the National Insurance Act, 1946, passed by the Parliament of the United Kingdom ;

that person shall, in respect of any attributable diminution of pension rights arising by reason of such failure to consolidate war payments, be eligible to have his case considered for the award of compensation in respect of that diminution, and the amount of such compensation shall not exceed the amount of the increase of pension to which he would have been entitled if the war payments had been so consolidated.

24. Notwithstanding the previous provisions of this Part of these regulations, if the capital value of any annual sum which has been or might be awarded under those provisions, when added to the capital value of any payments in respect of accrued rights by virtue of the Superannuation Regulations, does not exceed two hundred and fifty pounds, the Ministry may in its discretion discharge its liability under these regulations by the payment of a lump sum representing the capital value of that annual sum.

Payment of lump sum in certain cases.
