

Criminal Jurisdiction Act 1975

1975 CHAPTER 59

Evidence in criminal proceedings

10 Evidence on committal for trial

If in proceedings under the Criminal Procedure (Committal for Trial) Act (Northern Ireland) 1968 it appears to the court that a witness is in the Republic of Ireland, and that it is not reasonably practicable to secure his attendance, section 4(2) of that Act (right of the parties to require attendance of witness) shall not apply to that witness.
