PART ONE

CHAPTER V

OTHER MATTERS

Article 19 Adequacy of Service

- 2 Conferences and other parties prescribed in this Code as entitled to participate in consultations, including appropriate authorities if they so desire, should keep under review, and should maintain close co-operation regarding the demand for shipping space, the adequacy and suitability of service, and in particular the possibilities for rationalization and for increasing the efficiency of services. Benefits identified as accruing from rationalization of services shall be fairly reflected in the level of freight rates.

Changes to legislation:

There are currently no known outstanding effects for the Merchant Shipping(Liner Conferences) Act 1982, Paragraph 2.
