EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations.)

These Regulations amend the National Health Service (General Ophthalmic Services) Regulations 1974 ("the principal Regulations"), the National Health Service (Dental and Optical Charges) Regulations 1978 ("the Charges Regulations") and the National Health Service (Remission of Charges) Regulations 1974 ("the Remission Regulations") in particular so as to make provision for general ophthalmic services under the National Health Service Act 1977 ("the Act") until the coming wholly into force of the amendments made to that Act by the Health and Social Security Act 1984.

Regulation 2 amends the principal regulations so as to provide that optical appliances may be supplied under general ophthalmic services on presentation of the prescribed prescription form, given after a sight test under those services, or replaced or repaired under those services only to or for children or 16–18 year olds in qualifying education, persons to whom charges under the Act are remitted in whole or in part on grounds of low income and persons who require certain complex lenses. Provision is made for the waiver of charges for persons who are so exempted where the need for replacement or repair was through no fault of the patient.

The terms of service for contractors set out in Schedule 1 to the principal regulations are amended so as to require an ophthalmic medical practitioner or ophthalmic optician to issue, after a sight test under general ophthalmic services, a prescription for any optical appliance which is needed. The prescription is to be completed by the method recommended in British Standard 3521: 1962 (glossary of terms relating to ophthalmic lenses and spectacle frames) published by the British Standards Institution. Further amendments to the terms of services are made to require opticians to display the range of frames available under general ophthalmic services, or to show that range to patients; to exclude claims for services for which a claim has been made and for services not provided under general ophthalmic services; and to remove the condition that contractors cannot advertise.

Regulation 3 amends the Charges Regulations so as to replace the previous structure by five categories of charges according to whether the lens is single or bifocal, simple or complex, except for a lens of any other description supplied under the Act otherwise than under general ophthalmic services. The provision of maximum amount charged for any lens is removed.

Regulation 4 amends the Remission Regulations so as to provide for payment to persons who have entered into a private transaction for supply, replacement or repair when they would have been exempted from optical charges and entitled to supply, replacement or as the case may be, under general ophthalmic services.

Regulation 5 makes provision for the application of the regulations.

Copies of British Standard 3521 mentioned in the regulations may be obtained from any of the sales outlets operated by that Institution or direct by post from them at Linford Woods, Milton Keynes MK14 6LE.
