EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These regulations amend the National Health Service (Charges to Overseas Visitors) (No. 2) Regulations 1982 by increasing, by an average of 17.6% for in-patients and 6.1% for out-patients, the sums prescribed as charges to certain overseas visitors for services forming part of the national health service. These regulations also effect two other amendments. First, they make it clear that hospitals are, or are not, to be treated as being in teaching districts according to the designation of the district immediately before 15th August 1983 (since when no district has had a name which incorporates the word “Teaching”). Secondly, they alter the classification of day cases to draw a distinction between those receiving treatment on one day only and other cases (day patients) where treatment takes place on more than one day. Those parts of the National Health Service (Charges to Overseas Visitors) Amendment Regulations 1986 which prescribed charges superseded by these regulations are revoked.
