EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations amend the Social Security (Industrial Injuries) (Prescribed Diseases) Regulations 1985 ("the principal Regulations") and come into force in relation to regulations 1, 2, 3, 5, 6 and 7 on 9th August 1989 and in relation to regulation 4 on 16th October 1989.

The Social Security Act 1986 (c.50) raised from 1 to 14 per cent. the percentage degree of disablement which qualifies a person for disablement pension. Regulations 2 and 3 provide for regulations 6 (date of onset) and 7 (recrudescence) of the principal Regulations to apply as if that change had not been made.

Regulation 4 contains amendments relating to the prescription of the disease numbered A10 (occupational deafness). In particular it removes the requirement for hearing loss to be measured by pure tone audiometry.

Regulation 5 provides for regulation 37 of the principal Regulations (which relates to medical examinations) to apply equally to men and women.

Regulation 6 provides for industrial diseases Avian Chlamydiosis, Ovine Chlamydiosis and Q Fever to be added to the diseases prescribed under Chapter V of Part II of the Social Security Act 1975. Regulation 7 provides for the date before which entitlement to benefit in respect of those diseases does not arise.
