They must be resident in Great Britain and must not be a member of your immediate family. Instructions to anybody who sells, lets on hire, gives or lends firearms or ammunition, to the holder of this certificate.

Guidance to holder of certificate

Please ensure that anyone who sells, lets on hire, gives or lends you a firearm or ammunition reads these notes.

- 1 You must complete each column of Table 1 Firearms or Table 2 Ammunition.
- 2 In the case of a firearm – if you are a registered firearms dealer or a person who is entitled to possess the firearm without a certificate – you must inform the chief officer of police who issued this certificate within 7 days about the transaction by registered post or recorded delivery. You should provide a description of the firearm (including its identification number, if any). Also say whether the firearm was sold, let on hire, given or lent, and give the name and address of the holder of this certificate; and
- 3 Any circumstances attending the transaction which appear to require investigation must be reported within 48 hours to the chief officer of police who granted this certificate. If you are selling a firearm which will be sent or posted to another dealer for the buyer to collect in person you should complete this table and notify the police. The dealer who actually hands over the firearm should not complete the table or notify the police (except in circumstances which may require police investigation as above).

Table 1 Firearms

Certification

The countersignatory must endorse the back of one of the photographs submitted by writing the words – I CERTIFY THAT THIS IS A CURRENT TRUE LIKENESS OF [INSERT NAME] in ink and signing it with his usual signature and the date the likeness was compared. The person who countersigns the application is required by the Firearms Rules 1998 to declare that he knows of no reason why the applicant should not be permitted to possess a shot gun. The countersignatory should therefore be aware that the Firearms Act 1968 requires a chief officer of police to be satisfied that an applicant can be permitted to possess a shot gun without danger to public safety or the peace and that the Act prohibits the grant of a certificate to any person whom the chief officer has reason to believe is prohibited from possessing a shot gun. Countersignatories should bear in mind the character, conduct and mental condition of the applicant in so far as they are relevant to those matters. If you are applying for both a firearm certificate and a shot gun certificate one of your referees for your firearm certificate application may act as your countersignatory for your shot gun certificate application providing that he fulfills the requirements for countersignatories given above.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Rules)

These Rules prescribe the forms to be used in connection with the grant of certificates and permits for the purposes of the Firearms Acts 1968 to 1997 and the registration of firearms dealers.

Status: This is the original version (as it was originally made). This item of legislation is currently only available in its original format.

The Rules supersede the Firearms Rules 1989 and the Firearms (Scotland) Rules 1989 as amended and the changes of substance are mainly those made to take account of the provisions of the Firearms (Amendment) Act 1997 and the Firearms (Amendment) (No. 2) Act 1997 (c. 64).

The major changes are as follows. Rule 3(3)(a) requires an application for a firearm certificate to be supported by two referees. Rule 4 sets out the requirements for the referees. The prescribed form is in Schedule 1 Part III. Rule 3(5) requires the imposition of special conditions on firearm certificates in the circumstances there set out. Rule 8 provides that applications for visitors' firearm and shotgun permits are now to be made on the same form. Rule 10 no longer requires the register maintained by firearms dealers under section 40 of the Firearms Act 1968 to be in a prescribed form.

Other minor amendments are made to the Rules and forms.
