ELECTRICITY

The Electricity Act 1989 (Uniform Prices in the North of Scotland) Order 2005

Made - - - -	5th March 2005
Laid before Parliament	8th March 2005
Coming into force - -	1st April 2005

The Secretary of State, in exercise of the power conferred on her by section 7B of the Electricity Act 1989(a) (“the 1989 Act”), hereby makes the following Order:—

Citation and Commencement

1. This Order may be cited as the Electricity Act 1989 (Uniform Prices in the North of Scotland) Order 2005 and shall come into force on 1st April 2005.

Interpretation

2. In this Order—

“deposited maps” means the maps numbered 1 to 10 prepared in duplicate and marked “The Electricity Act 1989 (Uniform Prices in the North of Scotland) Order 2005” and deposited at the Department of Trade and Industry and at the office of the Gas and Electricity Markets Authority;

“domestic customer” means a person supplied or requiring to be supplied with electricity at domestic premises (but excluding such a person in so far as he is supplied or requires to be supplied at premises other than domestic premises);

“domestic premises” means premises at which a supply is taken wholly or mainly for domestic purposes; and

“North of Scotland” means the area described in the Schedule to this Order and shown on the deposited maps.

Prices in respect of supply

3. A holder of a supply licence shall ensure that the prices which it charges, in respect of a comparable supply of electricity to a domestic customer at any domestic premises in any part of the North of Scotland, do not take into account the geographical location within that area of the premises.

(a) 1989 c.29. Section 7B was inserted by section 72 of the Utilities Act 2000 (c.27).

Use of distribution system charges

4. A holder of a distribution licence which authorises it to distribute electricity in any part of the North of Scotland shall ensure that the charges payable by a supplier for use of its distribution system for the purpose of supplying any domestic premises in that area do not take into account the geographical location within that area of the premises.

Use of transmission system charges

5. A holder of a transmission licence which authorises it to participate in the transmission^(a) of electricity in any part of the North of Scotland shall ensure that the charges payable by a supplier for use of its transmission system for the purpose of supplying any domestic premises in that area do not take into account the geographical location within that area of the premises.

5th March 2005

Mike O'Brien
Minister of State for Energy and E-Commerce,
Department of Trade and Industry

(a) The definition of “transmission” was amended by section 135(3) and (4) of the Energy Act 2004 (c.20).

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Order)

This Order, which is made under section 7B of the Electricity Act 1989, ensures that holders of electricity transmission, distribution and supply licences cannot charge prices which take into account the geographical location of any domestic premises within a designated area of the north of Scotland.

The designated area in the north of Scotland, which is defined as the “North of Scotland”, is described in the Schedule to the Order and shown on the deposited maps numbered 1-10. The first of these maps, Map 1, is annexed to this Note and delineates the area as a whole. Maps 2-10 set out the boundaries in more detail. The deposited maps are all available for inspection during normal office hours at the Department of Trade and Industry (reference number: QBBD/002/00267P), 1 Victoria Street, London, SW1H 0ET and at the office of the Gas and Electricity Markets Authority, 9 Millbank, London, SW1P 3GE.

A regulatory impact assessment in respect of this Order was prepared in August 2004 and can be obtained from Energy Markets Group, Department of Trade and Industry, 1 Victoria Street, London, SW1H 0ET. Copies have been placed in the libraries of both Houses of Parliament.
