(2) Where this regulation applies, the employing authority may, not later than six months after the termination date, decide to pay compensation under this regulation and in that event shall, as soon as reasonably practicable after the decision, notify the person in whose favour it has been made, giving details of the amount of the compensation.

(3) In formulating and reviewing their policy the authority must—

(a) have regard to the extent to which the exercise of their discretionary powers (in accordance with the policy), unless properly limited, could lead to a serious loss of confidence in the public service; and

(4) The amount that an employing authority may decide to pay under paragraph (3) may not exceed the difference between—

(a) 104 weeks’ pay, and

(b) the 2000 lump sum

but if the person in whose favour a decision under paragraph (3) has been made receives a redundancy payment under Part 11 of the 1996 Act or compensation under regulation 5 of the 2000 Regulations or regulation 5 of these Regulations, the equivalent amount shall be deducted from the compensation otherwise payable to him under paragraph (3) if no such adjustment has already been made.

SAVINGS

1. The revocation of the 2000 Regulations does not affect—
   (a) any person whose termination date is before 1st October 2006 and who is eligible for compensation under the provisions of those Regulations,
   (b) any person to whom an employing authority have decided that compensation shall be paid under those Regulations in accordance with regulation 11(2) of these Regulations, or and in relation to such persons those Regulations shall continue to apply.

2. Where—
   (a) any provision continues to have effect in relation to any person by virtue of paragraph 1, and

(15) S.I. 2003/3239, to which there are amendments not relevant to these Regulations.
(16) S.I. 2003/533; regulation 7A was inserted by S.I. 2006/564, regulation 8.
3. The revocation by these Regulations of any provision which previously revoked any provision subject to savings does not affect the continued operation of those savings, in so far as they remain capable of having effect.

EXPLANATORY NOTE
(This note is not part of the Regulations)

These Regulations provide a new, simplified framework for the payment of discretionary compensation to persons whose local government employment is terminated on or after 1st October 2006 by reason of redundancy or in the interests of the service or where a joint appointment comes to an end because one of the holders leaves. They revoke the Local Government (Early Termination of Employment) (Discretionary Compensation) (England and Wales) Regulations 2000 (“the 2000 Regulations”) but the revocation does not affect any person whose termination date is before 1st October 2006 or the rights of any person who is entitled to benefits under those Regulations in consequence of the death of such a person. In relation to such persons the 2000 Regulations continue to apply.

Regulation 4 states to whom the Regulations apply.
Regulation 5 gives a power to increase a redundancy payment made under the Employment Rights Act 1996.

Regulation 6 allows an employer to award compensation in the form of a lump sum of an amount that must not exceed 104 weeks’ pay. The regulation sets out the basis for calculating a week’s pay for an individual. Any redundancy payment under the 1996 Act or compensation paid under regulation 5 of these Regulations must be offset against compensation paid under regulation 6.

Regulation 7 requires each employing authority to have and publish a policy that they apply in the exercise of their discretionary powers under regulations 5 and 6.

Regulation 8 deals with how payments are made and any errors dealt with.

Regulation 9 provides that payments made under these Regulations must not be met out of any Local Government Pension Scheme funds.

Regulation 11 contains transitional provisions and revocations, subject to savings. A transitional provision is that an employing authority may decide to pay compensation under the 2000 Regulations in respect of a person whose employment commenced before 1st October 2006 and whose termination date is between 30th September 2006 and 1st April 2007. An employing authority may also pay additional compensation under these Regulations to a person whose termination date is between 30th September 2006 and the date on which these Regulations came into force and who has been awarded a lump sum under Part 3 of the 2000 Regulations, as long as the total amount paid does not exceed the maximum payable under these Regulations.

The Regulations take effect from 1st October 2006. Section 24 of the Superannuation Act 1972 provides that regulations made under that section may have retrospective effect. Regulation 11(5) of these Regulations provides that nothing in these Regulations shall place any individual in a worse position than he would have been if these Regulations had not had retrospective effect.

Schedules 1 and 2 make consequential amendments and savings.
A regulatory impact assessment of the effect that this instrument will have on the costs of local government employing authorities was published on 6th November 2006 and is available on the internet at www.xoq83.dial.pipex.com. Copies can be obtained by post from the Department for Communities and Local Government, Zone 2/F6, Ashdown House, London SW1E 6DE, or by phoning 0207 944 4137. The assessment anticipated that this instrument will not increase employers’ compensation costs.
